Sub-Amendment by C.C.F. Condemning Social Policies Is Voted Down in House

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—The House of Commons last night voted down a C.C.F. sub-amendment to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne but got another in its place, sponsored by J. S. Roy (Ind., Gaspe).

The defeated motion regretted the government's failure to propose "fundamental social changes and economic planning." It was rejected by a vote of 173 to 20.

Mackenzie Says:

Demobilization Program Won't Be Premature

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—(CP)—A program for demobilization of Canada's armed forces will not be drafted in its final form until "we know under exactly what circumstances the war shall end," Pension Minister Mackenzie said today.

In an address prepared for delivery to the annual convention of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association, Mr. Mackenzie said a preliminary demobilization program has been prepared; but "it would be unfortunate if we were prematurely to enact it into a rigid form."

"We shall better be able to draft our legislation in this connection when we know under exactly what circumstances the war shall end. When that happy event occurs, I can assure you that we shall be ready with a sound program of orderly demobilization."

"The nature and the success of that program will, of course, depend upon the economic condition of the country at that time."

NEED FULL EMPLOYMENT

Re-establishment of service personnel and other post-war measures will depend a great deal on the success in the field of reconstruction, Mr. Mackenzie said.

"It will be of little use to train our veterans for jobs if there are no jobs available. The best kind of social security is full employment. Our million workers in war industry have been accorded the protection of unemployment insurance for such temporary disturbances as may occur in the transition period from war to peace. But it is not unemployment insurance they ask—it is the assurance of employment. . . . The core of the problem of reconstruction is the maintenance of full employment. We have it today and we are determined to maintain it. The people of Canada, with memories of the hungry '30s still green, will not tolerate failure in that respect."

Economic Salvation of Canada After War Lies in China—Cohen

By JOHN D. HAMILTON

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—The opening of the new Leda highway across the Himalaya mountains from India to China, and the recapture of the old Burma road, will press a Chinese offensive aimed at the very heart of the Japanese military system "which is in China—not Japan," Gen. Morris Cohen, famed English-Canadian soldier-of-fortune and former Edmontonian, who has been attached to the Chinese government, told British United Press in an exclusive interview here today.

Gen. Cohen, who is 56, also declared that Japan hates and fears Russia more than any other country in the world and said that the "economic salvation of Canada after the war is China."

The interview was the first dealing with supply and logistics problems that the short, stocky soldier

Severe Cold Snap Predicted in U.S.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The United States' most severe cold snap of the winter, which will bring below-zero temperatures to the northern plains and Great Lakes region, will strike within the next 24 to 48 hours, Forecaster H. A. Downs said today.

The mercury already had fallen today to 15 below zero in Minn., N.D., 18 below at Bemidji, Minn., and 8 below at Duluth, Minn.

Blasts of cold Arctic air will move southeast through the Dakotas, Wyoming, Nebraska and Minnesota tonight. The cold wave will reach Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois within 36 to 48 hours, Downs said.

Nippon Factories Turning Out 1,200 Planes Per Month

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—An estimate that Japanese factories are turning out aircraft at a rate of 1,200 or more a month came from high quarters here today, coupled with a report that the Japanese—like the Germans—are concentrating on defensive types.

This report on Japanese production is about 100 per cent higher than most of the guesses made since Pearl Harbor.

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—

Finance Minister Ilsley said today in the Commons that consideration now "can be given" to abolition of meat rationing and discontinuance of meatless Tuesdays.

He was answering a question from Mark Senn (PC—Heldman) which followed an extensive statement on meat supplies and livestock marketing by Agriculture Minister Gardiner in reply to earlier questions by John Blackmore, New Democracy leader.

Mr. Gardiner said purchases of bacon for the United Kingdom have been 20,000,000 pounds a week for several weeks—more than 1,000,000,000 pounds a year if that rate continued.

(Canada is under contract to supply the United Kingdom with at least 900,000,000 pounds of bacon during the next two years, but the expressed aim is to ship as much more as possible.)

GIVES STATEMENT

Mr. Gardiner gave a detailed statement on reported meat supplies.

Heavy marketings of livestock—up 80 per cent above 1943 in some cases, indicated there was little in this talk of a decrease in food supplies in Canada in the immediate future," he said.

Arrangements had been made to purchase additional meat supplies for Britain. The immediate problems were obtaining sufficient shipping space and relieving cold storage facilities now fully occupied. The United Kingdom was prepared to take meat supplies if they could be shipped. In addition to pork and beef, arrangements had been made to ship some mutton as shipping became available.

Bombers Blast Rail Junction Close to Paris

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Allied medium bombers blasted the rail junction of Tergnier, northeast of Paris, today, while hundreds of British, Dominion and American planes of all types struck at the French invasion coast and inland targets.

The day-long bombardment, in which many Allied planes swooped low to strafe their targets, was completed without loss and a joint Air Ministry-American communique said the morning raiders failed to flush a single German fighter.

Running their individual sorties since dawn yesterday to more than 450 without loss, the mediums caught the Germans flat-footed at Tergnier and strung their bombs across engine repair shops, sheds and freight trains in the yards.

McLean Is Named National Director Of Liberal Group

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Appointment of Allan G. McLean, former controller and secretary of the National Film Board, as national director of the National Liberal Federation was announced today by Senator W. McL. Robertson, federation president.

Formerly of Yorkton, Sask., Mr. McLean ran unsuccessfully as Liberal candidate in Yorkton constituency in the 1940 general election. Before coming to Ottawa, he was associated with a western Canada wholesale house.

VAST ECONOMIC CHANGES

It has been estimated that 97 per cent of the present power production has been made possible by developments that have taken place since the beginning of this century. This vast change in the economic scene has made it impossible for men to adapt their thinking much less their preconceived notions, sentiments and prejudices to the unprecedented phenomena with which they are confronted.

It is because of this growing gap between the forward rushing world of economic fact and the backward looking world of economic thought that peoples have been paralyzed in action by this conflict between patent fact and cherished theory. It has led to a sense of impotence and frustration.

Continuing, he said that "for 21 years between the wars we struggled desperately to make the facts conform with our out-dated theories. The task before us is to revise our theories so that they shall conform with the new facts of the new world."

MAIN POST-WAR PROBLEM

"The principal economic problem with which the Empire will be faced after this war will be: 'Under consumption and unemployment which are inseparable.'"

Staunch Advocate of Monetary Reform

Above is Rt. Hon. Lord Sempill in a characteristic pose in his room at the Macdonald hotel. Lord Sempill, who arrived in Edmonton Wednesday to confer with officials of the National War Services Council, is a staunch advocate in monetary reform.

Urges British Take Lead In Establishment of New Monetary Economic Policy

Substantial improvements are called for in the economic system, not only of the British Empire and Commonwealth, but of the world, and it will be appropriate if the British people, who have contributed so much to world advancement, should lead in the founding of a new technique in economic and monetary policy, Rt. Hon. Lord Sempill, Ottawa, National War Services Council, stated in an interview here Wednesday.

He said that the Empire has shown itself to be increasingly conscious of the fact that there must be some fundamental flaw in the present economic system which converts international trade into a competitive struggle of the most ferocious character in which the victor manoeuvres the vanquished into a state of unpayable debt.

"There must be a flaw in the economic system which produces the obvious absurdity of men in need of the necessities of life being denied the money with which to buy them because there is a super-abundance of those necessities and their services are not required to make any more," he said.

"Our economic theories were formulated under the influence of economists of the last and earlier centuries. The application of science to industry has brought about in an incredibly short space of time the greatest revolution in the whole course of human history in the fundamental facts upon which our economic thought is based. The circumstances of our economic life have been changed out of all recognition by the coming of power production," Lord Sempill stated.

There was no mention of ground fighting on New Guinea, where Australian forces advancing up the Huon peninsula were reported yesterday to have reached within 16 miles of American forces at Sador, only 43 miles southeast of Bogadim, nor on New Britain, where it was indicated the Japanese may have evacuated the Cape Gloucester area.

Von Seydlitz broadcast a plea to his former comrades-in-arms to "come over to the side of the Free German National Committee," and help create "a truly free and really independent Germany."

ALGIERS, Feb. 9.—British and American troops battled grimly to hold their 100-square-mile beachhead below Rome today as American armored forces attacked the German mountain stronghold of Cassino and British forces drove forward on the lower Garigliano river sector.

(The German DNB news agency said Nazi troops had launched a three-pronged counter-offensive against the 5th Army beachhead and had broken the Allied lines at a number of points.

(DNB said the Nazi forces, attacking the Aprilia sector of the Allied lines from the west, north and northeast, had reached their initial objective in a series of "concentric assaults." It was indicated the Germans were following their familiar tactics of trying to chop up the Allied lines by overwhelming armored thrusts against relatively narrow sectors of the front.)

(DNB said the German attacks gained "several kilometres.")

NO MAJOR ATTACK

The Allied headquarters communique, covering yesterday's fighting, said enemy troops continued to "probe" the Allied positions and made no mention of a major German attack.

Headquarters spokesmen said, however, that massed German artillery opened up with a terrific barrage on the Anglo-American lines, and a dispatch from British United Press war correspondent

Hearing Ends Commit Woman To Stand Trial Murder Charge

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
DAWSON CREEK, B.C., Feb. 9.—Mrs. Theresa Seline, charged with the murder on the morning of January 2, of her husband, Roy Seline, garage superintendent for the U.S.E.D., was committed to stand trial at the next sitting of the supreme court in the Caribou district by Police Magistrate C. Kitchen, at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing here Tuesday.

The accused, who appeared in a nervous condition, did not give any evidence at the hearing, which saw several witnesses testify of discord between husband and wife prior to the shooting in their trailer home. One witness, telling the court of a quarrel overheard between the Selines, on January 1, declared she heard the deceased tell his wife "if you don't get out of this place I'll kill you."

The witness, Mrs. Buhani, whose home is located about 20 feet from where the Seline trailer had been set up, also testified that later that night, or early the next morning,

Urges British To Take Lead In Money Reform

able; the trade cycle; the international financial problem with which is bound up the struggle for favorable balances of payment, involving tariffs, quotas, etc., the buying and selling of foreign currencies by speculators, and the threat to the exchange value of national currencies, leading to unpayable debt.

"Other problems are the unwillingness, consequent upon their industrialization of primary producing countries, and more particularly the Dominions and India, to receive imports of manufactured goods which previously they had imported freely; nations with different economic systems must be enabled to live in the same world without the differences constituting a threat to the existence of one another's internal system, and lastly the movement of peoples from over-populated to under-populated countries.

"It is clearly absurd that men in need of the necessities of life should be denied money with which to buy them because there is a super-abundance of those necessities and therefore no need for them to be produced. Unemployment is a by-product of under-consumption, a shortage of effective demand for the goods which a nation is capable of producing.

"The problem is one of purely of equating effective demand with supply, whereas heretofore all our efforts have been directed toward trying to equate supply with effective demand by scrapping perfectly good capital equipment, by the limitation of output and by the deliberate destruction of real wealth.

SURPLUS OF GOODS

"When there is a surplus of all goods overhauling the market and causing a slump what is needed is that effective demand should be increased without the supplies of goods awaiting consumption in the market being similarly increased."

The problem has arisen out of power production. The machine produces goods but it does not consume them. Wages of the machine in the past would have gone to many men and would have been used to purchase and consume goods. The wages of the machine goes to a comparatively small number of people who are not likely to increase their consumption of mass produced goods.

"Power production has increased greatly the output of goods and therefore it is vital that the monetary system should be so devised that sufficient money tokens are made available to permit the full, and continuous use of manpower acting through machinery and with a call on virtually unlimited raw material," he said.

"Should there be insufficient money tokens, prices must fall, bringing about the whole train of unemployment, demoralization, loss of confidence, class unrest and general stagnation of trade, all of which lead to serious social unrest, the cumulative effects of which we are warning against today.

"Under a revised monetary system it would be one of the main functions of the treasury to put into circulation without creating a debt just sufficient new money to balance the increase of goods and services that are brought about by the full utilization of manpower and materials.

"By so doing it would maintain the price index constant, and it is of the first importance that the value of currency should not vary, and the technique for achieving this would be to regulate the amount of money in circulation to correspond with the amount of goods and services produced.

"There is perhaps no subject more controversial than economics and monetary reform, primarily because it is so little studied and understood by those not specifically engaged in its working. One reason for this may be that there is no agreed simple vocabulary where these matters may be explained and understood by all.

"All industrial nations have suffered from acute social unrest springing from unemployment. In Germany there were seven million unemployed, and it is unlikely that the Nazis would ever have come to power had this seething mass of unrest not offered fertile soil on which the seeds of national socialism fell.

"This world conflict is at the root of a war of ideas. The Nazis gave their people assured employment in building up a monstrous war machine. It is important that we should not minimize the strength of the appeal which an assurance of economic security must make to those who have experienced the misery of unemployment.

"The democracies did not employ its unemployed on constructive work such as slum clearance. They paid them the dole to do nothing. It was financially cheaper to pay them the dole than to pay them full wages to create real wealth.

"The time for half measures to mitigate the consequence of error is past. What is required is a courageous tackling of root causes, and such is vital if we are to save our civilization from major catastrophe. Unless unemployment and the ferocious struggle for world markets abroad is eliminated the sense of fear, resentment, and frustration that these things have spread over the world will engulf our civilization.

CAN FUNCTION

"Internationally I believe that we have already under pressure of war established a system that can function perfectly well in peace time, that is, lease-lead, or more

Edmonton Boys Like to Recall 'Old Home Town'

Edmonton padre had warm praise for the "magnificent spirit of the people of Britain."

PEOPLE UNITED

"The war has united the people of Britain as they never have been united," Sgt. Ldr. Gower said. "Everywhere people are going about the business of fighting the war with no visible signs of slackness," he said.

"I met and chatted with so many from Edmonton in the fighting services but it's hard to recall their names at the moment," he said.

As to his own future the officer is uncertain. Laughingly he said:

"As I was born in England I could not stand the climate there. Doctors advised me I would be better away from the damp winters of Britain, so here I am."

Sgt. Ldr. Gower served in the Royal Air Force as a bomber pilot in the First Great War.

He is a graduate in mechanical engineering and studied agriculture in Canada before entering the ministry.

Ordained in 1931 he served as rector at Sedgewick and Camrose parishes and was appointed to Christ Church Parish in 1935.

He was chaplain of the 2nd (Reserve) Bn. of The Loyal Edmonton Regiment.

Afternoon Caucus For Independents

Independent M.L.A.'s met in caucus at the Legislative Buildings Wednesday afternoon, preparatory to opening of the legislative session here Thursday.

The caucus commenced at 2:30 p.m., and was to consider organizational plans for the Independent House group for the session. A party whip, and possibly a House leader, were to be chosen.

At the last session of the Legislature, James C. Mahaffy, K.C., Calgary, was house leader, and George MacLachlan, Pembina, whip.

Arriving in Edmonton Wednesday morning for the caucus were James Walker, M.L.A. for Warner, Independent leader in Alberta, Mr. Mahaffy, and Mayor Andrew Davison, Calgary.

2 Prince Rupert Aldermen Beaten By U.S. Soldiers

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Feb. 9.—(CP)—United States army court martial proceedings were instituted yesterday against several American soldiers accused of attacking two Prince Rupert aldermen—G. W. Rudderham and James S. Black—on a street here Monday.

No announcements were made in connection with the arrests and there was no apparent motive for the attack on the two men while they were on their way home from a city council meeting. The aldermen said they were chatting when attacked "out of a clear sky."

Mr. Rudderham was knocked unconscious and suffered a broken nose and Mr. Black suffered facial laceration. Mr. Black pursued the men until they were taken into custody near an American army post.

British Admiral Gets Promotion

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Vice-Admiral Sir Bruce Austin Fraser, commander-in-chief of the home fleet who personally commanded the units which sank the German battleship Scharnhorst off the north coast of Norway Dec. 26, has been promoted to admiral, the admiralty announced last night.

properly mutual aid. The extension of these principles to our post-war world is quite feasible. If nations agree to the principles of mutual aid to win the war then surely they can so equally to "win the peace."

"Internally the problem is to equate purchasing power with production. To do this we have to ensure that the state must spend into existence new money, created not as at present as a debt to the banks on which interest is payable, but "interest free money" created by the banks acting as agents for the government, and receiving payment for the service they render instead of interest payments in perpetuity."

Church Heads Criticize Allied Raids on Reich

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(CP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of Chichester criticized Allied bombings of German cities today in the House of Lords.

"Recent attacks upon cities like Hamburg, Frankfurt and Berlin seem to me to go a long way beyond what hitherto has been declared the policy of the government and the bomber command," the Archbishop of Canterbury said.

"The policy of obliteration is openly acknowledged," the Bishop of Chichester asserted. "That is not a justifiable act of war."

The Archbishop, head of the Church of England, also criticized a tendency "to exult and gloat" over the destruction of German cities and towns "among some of our people."

NOT TERROR RAIDS

Replying as leader in the upper house, Lord Cranborne said the R.A.F. never had indulged in pure terror raids.

Lord Cranborne said 80 per cent of the German fighter planes now were tied down to combat Allied attacks.

"That has greatly facilitated the efforts of our heroic Russian Allies to liberate their own country from the Nazi yoke," he said.

He said almost the entire Krupp armament works covering two square miles had been destroyed at Essen. Attacks last summer on Hamburg cost the Germans 400,000,000 man hours, he added.

"It is to me full justification for the present bomber campaign," he said. "I cannot give the Bishop of Chichester any hope that we shall abate our bombing policy. On the contrary, we shall continue it in increasing power and with more crushing effect until final victory is secured."

Yanks Complete Capture of Atoll

By WILLIAM HIPPLE

PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz wrote finish to the Kwajalein invasion in the Marshall Islands with the brief announcement yesterday that organized resistance on the atoll "has ceased and its capture and occupation have been completed."

There still was no mention of ground action on the extreme western portion of the atoll, in the Ebodon island area. It was assumed this had been cleaned out by United States marines who originally landed in the Roi-Namur sector to the north.

The statement by the supreme commander in the central Pacific that "organized resistance" had ended indicated individual Japanese probably were still holding out in dugouts and sniping positions. Their presence, however, was only a minor mopping-up problem.

"Whether or not we get supplies in larger quantities," he continued, "China is pledged to open an offensive some time soon. For years we fought alone and are prepared to do so again—albeit, of course, we are hoping for material aid in destroying Japan."

When asked how he thought the Japanese would succeed in their "New Asia Co-prosperity Sphere" plan, which is aimed against white domination of the Orient, the energetic soldier said, "The Chinese know Japan and are not fooled by her. Co-prosperity only means slavery under the Japanese. The Russians also know Japan and Japan hates and fears Russia more than any other country in the world."

Execution Date Again Postponed

Death sentence passed on Sam Desjarlais, Conklin district Indian, has been rescheduled until May 31 by Mr. Justice C. C. McLaurin, who was the presiding judge at the jury trial in which Desjarlais was found guilty of the murder of Karl N. Hemmingsen, Monday River district trapper.

Desjarlais was sentenced to be hanged on Jan. 5 last, but an appeal made a respite to March 17 necessary. He was unsuccessful in that appeal, but a further respite in the date became necessary when George Desjarlais was found guilty also of the murder of Hemmingsen, and will be brought to trial a second time in March. Sam is a witness for the crown in this trial.

China Great Economic Aid For Dominion of air traffic from India to Chungking, and a pioneer foot road over the mountains, where coolies pack in equipment and supplies on their backs.

"Already Canadian-made field guns and machine guns have been brought into China in this way and are being used against the Japanese," Cohen revealed.

The general said, however, that the supply trickling through was pitifully small. "But if the present British-American-Chinese offensive against the Japanese in Burma succeeds in winning back the original Burma road there will be a tremendous boost in Chinese morale—both on the fighting and the economic fronts," he added.

"It would be possible to move 60,000 tons of materials a month over the Burma road to China. Not only would the British, American and Canadian military equipment provide badly needed arms for Chinese soldiers, but the economy of the entire nation would be improved," he continued.

"Thus, inflation would be partly checked as confidence in Gen. Chiang's government was renewed. Hoarded food supplies would be brought out and sold on the open market and the feeling among the average Chinese citizens would be made more optimistic."

"I have heard it said," Cohen told British United Press, "that the Pacific war will drag along for a considerable time after Germany is conquered. I do not believe this. It is my view that the European war may last for some time yet, but that once Europe is again free and the Allies can throw the weight of their combined navies and armies into the war in China, Japan will collapse like a house of cards."

"Whether or not we get supplies in larger quantities," he continued, "China is pledged to open an offensive some time soon. For years we fought alone and are prepared to do so again—albeit, of course, we are hoping for material aid in destroying Japan."

When asked how he thought the Japanese would succeed in their "New Asia Co-prosperity Sphere" plan, which is aimed against white domination of the Orient, the energetic soldier said, "The Chinese know Japan and are not fooled by her. Co-prosperity only means slavery under the Japanese. The Russians also know Japan and Japan hates and fears Russia more than any other country in the world."

LIVED HERE FOR YEARS

Cohen lived at Edmonton for many years before World War I, and went overseas with the 218th Battalion "Irish Guards" from that city in the last war. He went to China in 1922, and has lived there almost continuously since then.

"The economic salvation of Canada after the war is China," he asserted, terming China "the greatest potential market in the world."

He said the Chinese like and respect Canada because the Dominion never had any part in the partitioning of spheres of influence in that country, and added that Vancouver may become a great port after the war, linking places like Shanghai and Hong Kong with the western world.

CHINA KNOWS CANADA

Cohen said China had always been aware of Canada because Chinese returning to their homes from Europe and America found their natural route going through Vancouver. This knowledge will be increased as Canadian military equipment, stamped with "made in Canada" labels in English and Chinese, reaches the country in increasing quantities, he added.

Cohen, who was born in London, was in business in Western Canada for some time. After he went to China he became associated with the Kuomintang (Chinese Nationalist Party), founded by the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen, first president of the Chinese Republic. Prior to Dr. Sun's death, Cohen was his aide-camp and bodyguard. Later he was number one man in charge of purchasing for the Chinese armies.

Commit Woman To Stand Trial Murder Charge

she had been awakened by a "muffled noise," which sounded as if the top of a heater had been blown off.

Hardy Coleman, also of the U.S.E.D., at Dawson Creek, and known to Mrs. Seline, told the court that on the morning of January 1, the accused had called at his home, and later that afternoon, accompanied by his wife and another man, who resided with them, the four had gone down town.

They ran into Mrs. Seline, he said, who "grabbed Mrs. Seline by the arm" and took her home. Later, calling at the trailer, Coleman said Seline had refused to see him.

Charles Holmes, a friend of Mrs. Seline, was called to give evidence. He stated that he had been with the accused when she met her husband on January 1. He also said that Seline had grabbed his wife by the arm, and had used "nasty language."

CALLED ON ACCUSED

Another witness, Mrs. Sheila Wallock, testified that she had called on Mrs. Seline New Year's day. The accused was in bed, she said, and "didn't appear to have been drinking."

She testified further that the accused had expressed fears that her husband "might lock her out as he had done once before."

Mrs. Agnes Sierrall, employed by the U.S.E.D., told the court that she had seen Seline and his wife together between 1 and 2 p.m. on Jan. 1.

Seline was in an "awful rage," she said, and accused his wife of "disgracing him in front of district engineers." Witness testified that Seline declared he had seen his wife "arm-in-arm with a man going to the bootlegger's" and also accused her of stealing $50 from him. This, Mrs. Sierrall said, the accused had denied.

Phyllis Church, also employed in the district, said that on the morning of Jan. 2, between 8 and 8:30 o'clock, she had seen Mrs. Seline in No. 4 U.S.E.D. barracks washing her hands, "and then she went into the lounge, where she smoked."

Elizabeth Moffatt, of the U.S.E.D., also told the court of seeing Mrs. Seline early in the morning of Jan. 2, after the shooting allegedly had taken place.

ASKED FOR DRINK

Fred Konopka, Dawson Creek resident, testified that Mrs. Seline called at his place about 10 a.m., January 2, and "asked for a drink." She stayed about ten minutes and had two four-ounce glasses of sherry wine, he said.

A small stain on a woman's red dressing gown found in the trailer where Seline met his death, was human blood of the same type as that of the deceased, medical evidence at the hearing disclosed. Tests had been made at Kamloops, B.C., by experts.

Evidence also was given that red fibre found on the stock of a shotgun taken from the Seline trailer, was identical in color and texture with that of the red dressing gown.

Cave Brown Cave, chief analyst, mines department of the provincial government, was called to give technical evidence. He stated that no fingerprints were found on the gun or exploded cartridge shell which were recovered from the trailer by police.

BALLISTICS TESTS

He told of "test shots" being made to determine the range at which the shot which ended Seline's life was fired, and estimated that the gun might have been discharged as close as 12 inches from the body, adding that this could not be considered an "accurate" estimate.

Analysis of pellets, taken from the wound, indicated that they had come from a box of shells found in the trailer, he said.

At its first meeting of the new session, the committee appointed a steering committee to draw up a program and communicate with representatives of provincial governments working on reconstruction.

Soviets Drive For Two Ports On Black Sea

By HARRISON SALISBURY

Exclusively to The Edmonton Bulletin. Copyright, 1944, by British United Press.

MOSCOW, Feb. 9.—Two Russian armies smashed toward the Black sea ports of Nikolaev and Kherson with increasing momentum today, collapsing the whole eastern end of the German salient inside the Dnieper Bend and isolating the mining centre of Krivoriog from three sides.

With Nikolai, source of 50 per cent of Germany's manganese supplies, and the whole left bank of the Lower Dnieper in their hands, Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 3rd and Gen. Fedor I. Tolbukhin's 4th Ukrainian armies joined forces for a powerful new drive toward the Black Sea.

Tolbukhin's men already had forced the Lower Dnieper at Nikolai and were expected momentarily to attempt a new crossing more than 100 miles to the southeast in a frontal assault on Kherson in the Dnieper estuary. Nikolaev lies 35 miles northeast of Kherson in the Ingul and Bug river estuaries.

APPEARS BY-PASSED

Front dispatches said powerful Russian columns were pushing rapidly along the right bank of the Dnieper from the Nikolai sector. Krivoriog, centre of rich iron deposits to the northeast, appeared to have been by-passed in the new offensive.

Tolbukhin's 4th Ukrainian army killed 15,000 Germans, captured 2,000 others and routed an additional 70,000 to 100,000 in liquidating the last German bridgehead on the lower bank of the Dnieper opposite Nikolai, an area of 1,628 square miles.

Some 165 miles northeast of Nikolai, the 1st and 2nd Ukrainian armies killed another 800 troops of the remnants of 10 German divisions encircled in a 300-square-mile area below Cherkassk, boosting to 23,000 the number slain in the past 10 days.

Gen. Mark Clark Rescues Briton In Battle Zone

THE 5TH ARMY BEACHHEAD SOUTH OF ROME, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark was within 100 yards of a German bomb explosion on the main beachhead road Monday—and he rescued a British driver from the wreckage of a burning truck. Here on a brief inspection trip, the 5th Army commander coolly extricated the wounded soldier and helped put him into an ambulance. On a previous trip to this zone Clark escaped death when shells killed several officers in his American patrol-torpedo boat.

under an umbrella of Allied fighters, simultaneously attacked the battered but unidentified military targets in the Pas de Calais coastal strip of France.

The assault followed British night raids without loss on objectives in Germany and France, including the Gnome-Rhone airplane engine factory at Limoges, central France, and an intruder plane destroyed a six-engined German flying boat over its base on the west coast of France.

ROCK ENGLISH COAST

The thunder of bomb explosions along the Pas de Calais area of the French coast rattled windows on the British southeast coast.

The first R.A.F. raid on the Gnome-Rhone factory, which turns out motors for Focke Wulf and other German planes, was carried out by a small force attacking under a full moon.

Saboteurs Wreck Important Plant

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Calling it "one of the boldest acts of sabotage yet carried out by French partisans, a Berne correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph today described the wrecking of an important metallurgical factory near Lyons.

"When the shops were about to be closed, about 30 heavily armed youths appeared at the factory gate and gained entry," he wrote. "After cutting the telephone wires, they rounded up the directors, foremen, workers and staff. They threatened them with pistols and herded them into a courtyard before an alarm could be sounded.

"The partisans then set small charges of explosives on the most delicate machinery and blew it up. Nobody was injured, but the machines will take many months to repair. The saboteurs then fled and have not been identified."

C.C.F. Party Skeptical Of Any Social Program Proposed by Government

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Stanley Knowles (C.C.F., Winnipeg North Centre) said in the House last night his party was skeptical about anything being done by the Liberal government on the social security program in the Throne Speech.

The phases in the speech, he said, sounded hollow. There were no suggestions how the requirements of the program would be met.

Even if the proposals were acted upon, they did not go far enough, he said during the Throne Speech debate. Nearly 2,000,000 jobs would be required by Canadians after the war and suggestions should be set forth at once for meeting this basic need.

Plans to provide housing, clothing and food should be outlined now, said Mr. Knowles. Social security could be provided only adequately if the economic system were operated effectively.

INCREASE PENSIONS

The amount of the old-age pension should be raised to $30 or $40 a month from $25 and the eligible age should be cut below the present 70 years.

Mr. Knowles commended Munitions Minister Howe for refusing an air transport franchise in the Maritimes to Canadian Pacific Airlines. He said the far north was practically being given away to that company.

Flying was a public service made possible by public funds for airfields construction.

Aviation could add to Canadian wealth and should not be given away to private enterprise.

The C.C.F. was not satisfied with the Throne Speech. There must be more than pious promises to satisfy the people, Mr. Knowles said.

The new wage-control order should be revised. Even if the government's social security program were carried through, much would be left for succeeding governments to do.

Anthony Hlynka (N.D.—Vegreville) said Social Credit is a philosophy which can cure Canadian problems with the supply of purchasing power to the people.

Everyone incapable of making a living should be granted a pension, he said.

ADEQUATE FARM INCOME

Unless agriculture received an adequate income, the farmer could not be expected to carry on and establish a reserve for a rainy day.

The government permitted a "racket" by allowing farmers to be charged high interest rates.

Mr. Hlynka predicted the Veterans' Land Settlement Act would tie debt around the soldier's neck for 25 years at 3½ per cent interest. They should be given their land free by the government.

Rev. E. G. Hansell (N.D., Macleod) criticized the C.C.F. sub-amendment to the address in reply to the Throne Speech on the ground it was not sufficiently definite. When he was interrupted by a C.C.F. member he began an attack against the C.C.F. group.

SAID "WEAKEST GROUP"

"The member for Rosetown-Biggart (C.C.F. leader M. J. Coldwell) comes into Alberta," said Mr. Hansell. "He has a convention of his party. He gets up and says this group here (New Democracy) is the weakest group in the House of Commons."

"It doesn't become any leader of a national party to go into another province and make remarks of that kind."

Before the war the New Democracy group had proposed that $200,000,000 be created in new money. Mr. Coldwell had opposed that suggestion; yet he now suggested $5,000,000,000 be provided for post-war reconstruction. Mr. Coldwell did not know that money could be created previously.

On the manpower plebiscite, the C.C.F. leader had asked the people to vote "yes" when the government brought in legislation based on the plebiscite the C.C.F. had voted against it. The reason given had been that the government had not conscripted wealth.

If that were sound, they should have told the people to vote "no" on the plebiscite for the same reason.

GRAYDON SUPPORTED

This week when Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative house leader, had questioned the government on the retirement of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, said Mr. Hansell, Mr. Coldwell "of course had to support him."

"If I had been in his place, and with the record of his stand on the war, I would not dare to have spoken on that matter," said Mr. Hansell. "Because if he had been listened to there wouldn't have been any Gen. McNaughton overseas."

The C.C.F. leader, however, had got two mentions on the radio out of the incident and Mr. Graydon only one.

"We hear a lot about the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation being controlled by the government," Mr. Hansell continued. "Well, in my opinion the CBC has given more publicity to this group (the C.C.F.) than it has to Liberals, Conservatives and Social Credit rolled into one."

There was always a danger in following a man who did not know where he was going. If he got into power he would have to ask someone where to go. Mr. Coldwell would not ask the New Democracy group. He was unlikely to ask the Liberals or Conservatives.

"Who are his advisers going to be?" asked Mr. Hansell.

"TIM BUCK" SHOUTED

"Tim Buck," shouted several members.

"Perhaps, I don't know," said Mr. Hansell.

He said the New Democracy group had tried to work with the C.C.F. and had nothing against them. They sat in the house and occupied rooms near one another. But when the C.C.F. "Gallop into our province (Alberta) and do things like that it doesn't tend to co-operation and friendship."

"I am not a Socialist," he said. "I am not a Communist—but if ever I were a Socialist I would rather follow Tim Buck than the member for Rosetown-Biggart (Mr. Coldwell) because Tim Buck makes no bones about it."

The house then voted on the C.C.F. sub-amendment to the address in reply to the throne speech. The sub-amendment was defeated 173 to 20.

CRITICIZED GOVERNMENT

It said the government had failed to propose the fundamental social changes an economic planning which alone could hasten the winning of the war and make possible the establishment of a post-war Canada capable of providing full employment and complete social security.

New Democracy members supported the C.C.F. sub-amendment. Progressive Conservative and Bloc Populaire members: Fred Rose (Lab.-Prog., Montreal Cartier) and Mrs. Doris Nielsen

Give Procedure For Payments On Certificates

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—The Wheat Board will make an announcement "right away, this month" as to the proper method to be followed by farmers in collecting money due them on participation certificates issued in 1940, 1941 and 1942 wheat, with first payments to be made in March. Trade Minister MacKinnon said yesterday in the Commons.

Answering a question by Victor Quelch (N.D.—Acadia), the minister said:

"Forms will be sent to all elevator agents and to banks for the use of producers, who will use the forms in registering their certificates and will then forward these certificates with the form to the board in Winnipeg."

MUST BE LISTED

"It is very important that the certificates be not forwarded without being listed on the form."

"The certificates will then be checked by the Wheat Board with the duplicates at head office, and then cheques will be issued."

"Payment on the 1940 certificates will commence in March, and immediately following that, the certificates for 1941 and 1942 will issue."

Mr. MacKinnon said it is impossible at present to estimate what amounts will be paid on the certificates.

Report Germans Using Infra-Red Aircraft Detector

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(CP)—The Vichy radio claimed last night that German anti-aircraft defences now are equipped with an infra-red detector which registers the presence of enemy planes. The broadcast said one type of Focke Wulf fighter also is equipped with this detector and that others soon will have it. "In addition," the Vichy radio said: "It will be possible to project infra-red barrages connected with electric signals which will report the presence of enemy planes the moment they enter an area of protection."

(Unity, North Battleford), supported the government.

As soon as the vote was completed, J. S. Roy (Ind., Gaspe), moved his sub-amendment.

Confirm R.C.A.F. Officers at Coast Will Be Retired

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Air Vice-Marshal A. B. Shearer, R.C.A.F. director-general of economy, will be retired from the service March 15 and his post will be abolished, an Air Force spokesman said yesterday.

This spokesman also confirmed the retirement of Air Commodore Earl McLeod air officer commanding No. 2 Group, Victoria; and Air Commodore A. E. Hull and Air Commodore R. J. Grant, western air command. These retirements are effective March 1.

Air Vice-Marshal Shearer is 49. He flew with the Royal Navy Air Service in the First Great War and joined the R.C.A.F. when it was formed in 1920.

Ottawa Increases Uniform Allowance

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Defence headquarters last night announced an adjustment in the clothing allowance for officers on active service whereby the amount paid an officer for his uniform allowance is increased to $250, considered more commensurate with the cost.

The order, effective as of Jan. 19 last, is not retroactive. The announcement said an amendment to general orders increases the cash allowance from the $150 which those officers on active service before Jan. 19 received to $250, which is to be paid henceforth to incoming officers who are posted to and are serving in a unit of the Canadian (active) army.

For those officers called out for duty or placed on active service but not serving with a unit, the following allowance will be provided: $100 on completion of three months' service; $75 on completion of six months and $75 on completion of 12 months' service.

Deputy Minister's Baby Son Killed As Home Burned

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Jonathan Finn, two-and-a-half-year old son of Dr. D. B. Finn, deputy minister of fisheries, perished in a fire of unknown origin which yesterday gutted the Finn home on the border between Ottawa and suburban Rockcliffe.

Marguerite Charbonneau, 18, who had been taking care of the child, scorched her face and hair when she tried unsuccessfully to rescue him from his crib. The boy and Miss Charbonneau were the only occupants of the house when fire broke out.

Dr. and Mrs. Finn were in Montreal at the time of the tragedy and returned to Ottawa by plane last night.

Minister Sees No Difficulty In Marketing

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—(CP)—If Canadian manpower is properly handled after the war there should be no difficulty in finding a market for everything Canadian factories can produce, Justice Minister St. Laurent said last night.

In a speech prepared for delivery at a dinner meeting of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association, Mr. St. Laurent said "the real difficulty—but it is not an insuperable one—is to make sure that manpower will be employed at producing the right kind of things in the right quantities at the right times."

DATA GATHERED

The government's advisory committee on reconstruction already had gathered much useful data on projects which might be carried out in the post-war period, he continued.

"The realization of many of them may appear to be more directly the responsibility of provincial or municipal authorities, or corporations or individuals, than that of the national government; but the national government is deeply concerned in the economy of the nation as a whole."

"It would seem to the layman that there might well be some national agency to co-ordinate and correlate these thousands of different projects to be carried out by thousands of different bodies and agencies, in some all-embracing plan without undue overlapping, and without deplorable voids and omissions."

A ministry of reconstruction, as forecast in the speech from the Throne at the opening of parliament, might—if modelled after the British ministry of reconstruction—function without impinging upon the jurisdiction of any governmental authority and without any undue regimentation of corporations or individuals.

The work of the ministry should be "to see that the whole range of post-war preparations is brought into one single coherent whole and that work on those plans proceeds apace," Mr. St. Laurent said.

Synthetic Rubber Used to Construct Invasion Vessels

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Invasion boats of synthetic rubber, capable of carrying 10 men with full equipment, are being produced in quantity by the United States Rubber company, the company announced yesterday. The boats are designed to glide noiselessly in shallow water and are equipped with quick release towing cables so they may be towed by fast boats and then released as they near shore.

Earthquake seismographs in 20 states recorded a blast set off in a limestone quarry at Manistique, Mich.

New Selective Service Boards To Be Set Up

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Labor Minister Mitchell announced yesterday the establishment of regional Selective Service advisory boards, designed to facilitate regional operations of National Selective Service, in British Columbia, the prairie provinces, Ontario and Quebec, with a fifth board to be set up later in the maritimes.

Each board will be organized under the chairmanship of the regional director of Selective Service. Other members will include representatives of the Regional Mobilization Board, Unemployment Insurance Commission, organized labor, munitions department, and the Prices Board.

TO ADD OTHERS

It is expected representatives of the defence department and agriculture will be added later.

Arthur MacNamara, director of Selective Service, said the boards have been inaugurated "for the purpose of bringing into the open National Selective Service problems as they may bear on each particular region."

"Each board will have authority to take required action within the limits of existing regulations, and may make recommendations to Ottawa regarding Selective Service policies and procedures in general," he added.

Functions of the boards will be supplementary to those of the National Selective Service advisory board, which consists of representatives of organized labor, employers, veterans, agriculture, and government departments and agencies.

Ontario Anxious For Early Start On Power Project

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Ontario is anxious to proceed as soon as possible with power development of the St. Lawrence river and of other power sites still available in various other areas of the province. Premier Drew said last night in an address to the Ontario Municipal Electric Association in convention here.

"It is neither good business nor is it wise to attempt this work until at least the first stage of the war is over, and demobilization provides the manpower which will be required," he added. "But plans are ready and will be put into effect at the time when work is needed during the period of industrial readjustment from war to peace."

"The world is going to need the things that we can produce as never before in the past. We are going to need new industries to produce those things which we have not yet made," he said.

Halifax Man May Command Cruiser

By ROSS MUNRO

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Capt. H. T. W. Grant of Halifax, who commanded the British cruiser Enterprise in the Dec. 28 Bay of Biscay action when the Enterprise and H.M.S. Glasgow, another cruiser, sank three of 11 Nazi destroyers and routed the others, may be given the command of one of the new Royal Canadian Navy cruisers, according to reports current here.

The only Canadian commanding a cruiser, the 44-year-old Grant, son of a former Nova Scotia lieutenant-governor, MacCallum Grant, would be a logical officer to take over one of the new cruisers.

Grant, on loan to the Royal Navy from the R.C.N., took over the command of the Enterprise late last summer after commanding the cruiser Diomed.

Plan Amendments To Election Act

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Samuel Factor (L-Toronto Spadina) was chosen yesterday as chairman of the Commons committee which will study the Election Act with the view of amending it to facilitate the taking of votes of members of the armed forces at the next general election.

The committee decided to engage the services of Harry Butcher of Bunnichy, Sask., to act as counsel. He has acted in a similar capacity in previous sessions.

Clarence Gillis (C.C.F.—Cape Breton South) said he intended to press his proposal that members should be elected directly by the armed forces overseas to represent them in the House of Commons.

These members would be additional to the 245 members who represent constituencies in Canada. The armed forces representation would be on the same basis as the unit of population used for civilian constituencies.

The committee at a subsequent meeting will consider whether its terms of reference are broad enough to go into this matter, which deals with the representation act rather than the election act.

For Security's Sake

Premier John Hart of British Columbia indicates that the present session of the legislature will consider legislation calculated to prevent Japanese from taking up residence on the Pacific coast after the war. He also reported that Japanese land, purchased by the Federal Government, will be turned over to returned servicemen.

There seems to be no doubt that British Columbia is taking firm steps to bid goodbye to Japanese settlers for good.

These steps, clearly, are taken on the basis of sorry experience. They are taken in the practical knowledge that the presence of Japanese is disruptive to industry and the entire economic picture. For security's sake, British Columbia wants no more of the Japanese.

Since British Columbia is virtually expelling the Japanese in perpetuity, there is reason to apprehend a movement of these people into the neighboring province of Alberta.

The Alberta legislature would do exceedingly well to duplicate British Columbia's legislation so that the burden of which the Coast province is freeing herself will not fasten itself about the neck of this one.

Cheap Business Loans

The Bank of Canada has lowered the rediscount rate by one per cent. This means that when chartered banks borrow from the central bank they will have to pay 1½ per cent instead of 2½ per cent. The stated purpose is to assure a supply of loan money for business use at low rates of interest in after-war years. This implies of course that the lowered rediscount rate is to be permanent—until such time at least as inflation tendencies may make it necessary to discourage the further expansion of private credit.

As the new rate comes into effect at once, commercial banks will not have to wait until the war ends before making loans on that basis. And those who plan business undertakings and extensions will not have to wait until the fighting stops before proceeding with their plans. Arrangements can be made in advance and plant reconditioning or other operations carried through, as soon as war demands allow these preparatory moves to be made.

This is one practical step toward enabling industry to adapt itself to peacetime production, and to do so with minimum delay. It assures also that post-war production and distribution will not be loaded down with overhead charges which would force consumer prices upward.

What is called "easy money" has been the policy followed since 1935. This is another term for cheaper money, and over these years interest rates have consistently tended downward—like on private and public loans. The results have shown that, coupled with control measures to curb inflation, cheap money is the only financial policy that makes sense.

Stepping Along

When United States warships plumped a couple of hundred tons of shells into Paramushiro the official announcer at Tokyo was moved to observe that "The Pacific war situation is becoming more serious." Coupling that incident with the loss of the Marshall Islands he felt constrained to inform his hearers that "The enemy's offensive throughout the entire Pacific is about to be strengthened another step"; noting that Allied bombers at the island bases will be "only eleven hours from Tokyo."

This unwonted candor was no doubt the impulsive reaction from the shock of surprise, but the jittery announcer was right for once on all counts. The meaning of these daring invasions of the Mikado's dominions is that ships and planes and men are now available to take not only "another" step but many of them toward carrying the Pacific war back to where it started from. As events in Europe make it possible to divert more Allied forces to the other theatre, the radioman will have plenty of opportunity to see his apprehensions verified.

Paramushiro is 800 miles from Attu, and 1200 miles from Tokyo. The naval attack is a signal that the northern route to Japan is not being neglected, while the major threat is being developed from the islands to the south. It may become the northern "jaw" of a pincers attack, with the southern islands and China supplying the other arm of the nut-cracker.

This is a matter of strategy, and for the time, like the man at the microphone, civilian observers elsewhere can only guess at what exactly may be behind the shelling of Paramushiro. But they must give him credit for being right when he sees that "the enemy's offensive" is stepping along in the direction of Tokyo.

What the Soldier Wants

Parliament on Monday got some first-hand information about the treatment Canada's fighting men want when they return to civilian life. The information came from Flight Lt. James Sinclair, member for Vancouver North, just back from fighting in Italy and Africa, and with four years' service to his credit. What he told parliament was not merely his personal opinions, but what he had learned from members of his own squadron and those in other units and branches of the armed forces overseas.

"First of all," the speaker said, "we want jobs. If we cannot fill those jobs we want the necessary training. We want jobs, not of death and destruction, but of peace and construction."

Under the Veterans' Land Act the down payment of 10 per cent cash deposit should be abolished, "and the veteran given title to his farm if he remains on it for five years." Rehabilitation pay should be raised to $75 a month and allowances. The clothing allowance should also be higher, and discharged men allowed to keep their uniforms.

In general the returned men should not be treated as "boys struggling ahead for themselves, but as men who have earned men's wages, who have hazarded their lives and sacrificed the best and most formative years of their lives, on very meagre pay."

These are not the guesses of a civilian as to what the men who are fighting our battles desire on their return. They are items in a direct report from the men themselves, transmitted by one of themselves, who is using his period of leave to put their views before parliament and the country. The suggestions provide ample food for thought, both by the members of parliament and by private citizens everywhere.

Perhaps more important even than the detailed proposals is the disclosure of the view-point of the fighting men as they look forward to the day when they will step out of their uniforms and become again civilian citizens of the Dominion at peace. They are not, this competent spokesman says, looking for miracles or "cushy" positions, but they do want a fair "fighting chance" to make good in peace as they are making good in war.

Thus far Edmonton taxpayers are about $55,000 better off because less snow has had to be cleared from the streets than a year ago. February and March may change the calculation however, and from the stand-point of spring moisture supply in the soil it is to be hoped they will. The ground was dry when the freeze-up came, most of the water from the melting snow flurries has evaporated rather than penetrated the earth, and without additional downfalls spring would find conditions not suitable for quick germination of the seed. Nobody likes to pay taxes or shovel snow—but better that than have to wait until well along in May before gardens and crops start to grow.

It's "MacRae"

Editor, Bulletin: In your issue of Jan. 22-24 just to hand you mention the Q.M. laundry as being in the locality of "McCree".

There has been considerable misspelling of the name even by certain departments of the contracting companies up here. Now as I don't like to see my adopted "home town paper" make the same mistake may I state that it is spelled "MacRae" (sounds Scotch).

This was at one time the switch point for the now abandoned spur track that serviced the string of copper mines now deserted and forlorn. I have for the past year lived within three hundred yards of the old station which was quite alone when I first saw it, now it is the shipping and receiving point for this unit of the war effort, greatly enlarged and busy.

So different from the days of "98" then it was prospectors, ore shipments, trappers, the odd bear and other wild animals. Now the huge trucks of the modern road transport shake its foundations as they roar along the Alaska Highway, the panting bulldozers breath sears its old walls, the boom of dynamite shattering the age old rock that lured the miners of old disturbs its austerity.

The Lewis river is only a mile away and the Q.M. laundry and dry cleaning plant is on the site of an old portage and village now gone and living in the memory of the old people only. At this spot is to be seen the remnants of a wooden railed tramway—horse hauled—over which the precious freight of travellers was hauled around the Whitehorse rapids (that still rush and roar on their way to the Yukon), 3 miles long known as "Miles Canyon" in which many a life and outfit was lost. I have hiked extensively in this section and listened to a few old timers' tales and seen many of the old cabins—left as the miners left them for the lure of gold in the Klondike. Seen the remnants of dog sleds, rockers (sluice boxes), bunks and food cache that were home to some old timer now gone to the Great Mine.

Pardon me for calling you like this but yours is a great paper and mistakes are rare with you and we have a reputation to hold up.

Editor, Bulletin: In this morning's mail I received a small parcel to which a tag bearing the following:

Pension All at 65

Editor, Bulletin: As it appears there is likely to be a lot of unemployment in Canada shortly due to over-production, etc., it would be a good thing if our members of parliament would consider the question of doing as they do in Britain.

That is, pensioning everyone off without any restrictions at 65 who have paid unemployment insurance for two years.

This would make more work for others under that age.

Higher Priced Butter

Editor, Bulletin: Will the government ever wake up to the fact that a little higher ceiling price on butter will keep us from having a butter famine.

For years we have gone back to our old home in the country, on Vancouver Island, every summer, and notice since the war that there is a steady stream of farmers changing from dairy cattle to beef cattle. They can not make enough out of the butter to pay them, they say—where will it end?

Then, too, permanent jobs are what our boys want and need after the war. All these extravagant and fantastic building projects will come to an end in a few years and then the government will wait that they are out of money, and can not go on and the soldiers will be out of work again.

What we need are factories for the production of essential products—gasoline, for instance. Such factories would provide continuous employment.

Repentance

Editor, Bulletin: May I once again beg for a little space in your paper to reply to the letter from the self-named Fair-Minded? My only reason for replying to her remarks is that I believe our enemies that started this slaughter of human beings without any reason but their love of it are, now that the tables are turned on them, striving by every means in their power to get out from under. Their propagandists by sly suggestions get their supporters in this country, and others who don't know any better, to spread this silly pacifist hot air through the press.

Fair-Minded says the devil can use the Bible to justify himself. Well, I beg to differ with her there. He may try to use it, but he cannot justify himself by God's word. She also says my quotations from the Bible are contrary to all Christian principles. I quoted the word of God to show that there had to be repentance before there was any forgiveness. And I don't mean that German "kammerad, kamerad" form of repentance—when they are cornered to watch their chance to shoot you in the back. We are expected to show "fruits meet for repentance". May Resignation?

Editor, Bulletin: In The Bulletin, January 26, Hon. Senator A. Blais publishes the news that he is leaving Edmonton for Vancouver. The departure of the Hon. Senator deprives northern Alberta of one representative.

Would it not be fair to suggest to him to send, to Ottawa, his resignation as an Albertan senator? (DR.) JOSEPH BOULANGER. Edmonton.

Street Naming

Editor, Bulletin: Some Edmontonians take pride in the street address system in use in our city. But an unprejudiced examination of the all-numerical street-designation shows that it is not only unique but also iniquitous.

It was adopted about thirty years ago when Edmonton on the north side and Strathcona on the south side of the river were amalgamated into one municipality. There is not space here to give the full history of the final choice of the all-numerical scheme as opposed to the plan of using groups of names arranged in alphabetical order.

My purpose in this brief letter is to point out that Edmonton will sooner or later change her faulty address system. Here I will mention only one fault, which in itself is fatal. Every house-address in this city is duplicated in another part (except in the small extent in which the streets are named). Our streets are numbered and precisely the same numbers are given to the avenues. Thus my own mail often comes addressed 9105 112 Ave. and

New Zealand's State Medicine

How System Works Under One Plan of Social Security

By B. T. RICHARDSON (Continued)

The battle of words between the Labor government and the New Zealand branch of the British Medical Association (there is no distinctively New Zealand doctors' "trade union") was fierce and prolonged. But the system of free medical, hospital, maternity and pharmaceutical benefits is now in operation. The system contains elements of compromise. It is administered by the health department, not the social security commission, but the payments are drawn from the social security fund, raised 75 per cent from income taxation and the rest from a poll tax or registration fee and grants from the general revenues of the country.

One feature of the system still not in effect is free dental service. The same bitter struggle is not likely to develop with dentists as with the doctors. In future, the system may also include free home nursing and other home assistance. After the social security act was passed in 1938, the first health benefit authorized was free treatment at the state mental hospitals.

One small private mental hospital still continues to charge for treatment outside the scheme. Then in May, 1939, free maternity benefits were provided. All but a few doctors have signed contracts with the government to participate in the scheme, and all hospitals, except a few privately-run institutions have joined. A woman receives free pre-natal and post-natal advice from a doctor, free medical and nursing attention in a hospital or elsewhere, including the services of a doctor and maternity nurse, or a midwife. The woman has choice of doctors; she signs a certificate and the doctor, the hospital or the midwife that provided her with maternity services may then collect from the social security fund. The fees are £5. for the doctor, £11 for the hospital, £11 2s. for a full-time midwife in the home, £5 10s. for a part-time nurse in the home. For special services, a doctor receives additional fees paid by the state. But a doctor that would be known as a baby specialist in Canada may charge extra fees but they are paid by the patient. In 1944 this maternity service is expected to cost £539,000, or £1,900,000.

Hospital Service

Free hospital service, started in July, 1939, includes reduced rates for patients in private hospitals. The state pays an allowance of 9s. a day for patients in hospitals. The free service includes medical, surgical, nursing care, attendance and maintenance, but not laboratory service. Since March 1941, the free service has been available for out-patients as well. The cost in 1944 will be £2,067,000 ($7,275,000). This is not entirely a new state cost, since previously the government provided grants to hospital boards on a £ for £ basis.

The original free medical service scheme was the panel system, and it has not succeeded. The state undertook to pay 15s. a year for each person looked after by a doctor, plus 2s. a mile travelling allowance. This would virtually place the doctors on a salary basis. At the start, the government invited the medical profession to submit a scheme of its own, but the doctors refused to do this. The panel system has been accepted by only 40 out of 1,760 doctors so far. Like the doctors, the public also went on strike, refused to take much interest in the panel system. The trades union campaigned to get their members to participate with little result. In the Wellington area, for instance, a population of 155,000 has produced less than 2,000 applications for panel cards.

A revised scheme worked. It went into effect October, 1941, and it is based on fees. The government refunds 7s. 6d. to each person presenting at any post office a social security registration card and a receipt showing he has had to consult a doctor or receive a visit from a doctor. This is the legal amount a doctor may collect if he went to court, but in general the doctors charge 10s. so that the effect of the scheme is that a New Zealander obtains a 10s. service (£1.76 for 2s. 6d. (44c). The government tried it out first at 5s. but the doctors held out for a higher fee and got 7s. 6d. with the right to charge more if they should get it.

Specialists

A doctor may charge specialists' fees, though he has no right in law to do so. By not recognizing specialists' fees, the state does not have to decide who is or is not a specialist, which is smart. The patient may select any doctor he likes. But it is an offence, regulated by a commission, to make unnecessary charges on the social security fund. The Canadian experience in the treatment of indigents in the depression years, that about 90 per cent of the doctors are honest, applies also in New Zealand. The cost of free medical service will be £1,030,000 in 1944 ($4,125,000).

New Zealand also has, in some special areas, district doctors on a salary basis. Additional free services now provided include medicines required on a doctor's prescription. The approved list includes most drugs, but not appliances or proprietary preparations, serums, vaccines or anti-toxins. Within time limits, a patient may obtain free insulin and sulphamide compounds. X-ray diagnosis and massage treatments, when authorized by a doctor, are also free. X-ray treatment is not free. The total cost of health benefits will be £4,332,000 ($15,250,000) in 1944, or 25 per cent of the total New Zealand social security benefits.

These health services cover the most important needs of the people of New Zealand. It is obvious that New Zealand people are obtaining more medical service than they did before, on the whole. No government now or in future is likely to consider abolishing or greatly curtailing the system.

The great advantage that everyone is looked after better than before, is offset by some disadvantages. Too many people go to doctors, and too many people go to hospitals. This was a common criticism, we found. Doctor's offices and hospitals are crowded in New Zealand, one of the healthiest countries in the world. This situation is aggravated by the absence of many doctors in military service. The opposition in parliament has urged that more attention be placed on preventive medicine, to cut down the costs. Under existing conditions the patient that is acutely ill may have difficulty in getting a doctor, since the profession is snowed under with minor ailments. Evidently, the effort to put preventive health measures by private institutions, such as insurance companies in Canada and the United States, is being lost and the state has not yet taken up this extra work.

The Use and Making of Mirrors

Venetian Glass Makers Were Discoverers and French Improved It

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

"Mirror and chromium" are often classed together and used synonymously with everything that is slick and modern in architecture and decoration.

But that is not really accurate for mirror is an old, old notion favored by man as early as he had mastered the secret of making it.

Yet commanding the skilled interest of scientists in the most advanced laboratories of today mirror is needed in many modern inventions.

The current vogue for mirrors in decoration is due to the present custom of living in small quarters. Nothing makes a small room seem more spacious than mirrors, or makes a big room seem more grand. Besides their contribution of vistas, mirrors likewise introduce life and motion to the decoration of a room.

At times in history, big wall-high mirrors have been the thing, at other periods small beautifully framed mirrors or mirror details on furniture or architecture were the style. Today both are smart. We may even return to wearing mirrors, as was once the fashion, on hats, in rings, as buttons, as pendants.

War Tools

Don't make the mistake of thinking mirrors as entirely frivolous, for without them no microscope or telescope could function. So count on mirrors as important instruments of war too.

The first mirrors were of polished metal. The Venetians in the 16th century discovered the way to make glass mirrors. That hinged on their then-new development of a clear colorless glass to which a metal leaf backing could be added. The real improvement here over polished metal was that for the first time a reflecting surface could be made that gave back an image true as to color—for of course polished metals gave back a greyed or a tinted reflection.

The Venetians jealously guarded their secret and the mirror monopoly grew to be an enormous industry.

Plate Glass

But by hook or crook, the French wormed their way in to the secret of mirror-making. They added a brilliant improvement of their own—plate glass. This made possible for the first time, a mirror that gave back an image true in form with no ripples and distortions.

That really started things. Louis XIV, king of France at that time, was enchanted with the wonderful new mirrors and literally "lastered" his world with them. They were set in the royal coach; they were panelled into the walls of every room you could name, climaxed by the celebrated Gallery of Mirrors at Versailles which is still to be seen. At least there haven't been any reports, so far, of its destruction.

What a world of contrasts those mirrored walls at Versailles have reflected—of fashion, intrigue, politics. Here incidentally was signed the late lamented Treaty of Versailles after World War I.

France took her mirror monopoly from Venice with a grand flourish and in turn guarded her secrets as jealously as ever Venice had done. But at the same time this content was developing and growing up, and after several false starts, got a plate industry going that not only leads the world in output but has contributed innovations of her own. Notable is the use of aluminum for the back instead of silver. The aluminum tarnishes less easily than silver and takes a re-polishing which silver does not.

Security

The effect on the medical profession, upon the fullest co-operation of which the scheme must depend, also raises some question marks. There is a scarcity of doctors in rural districts. This is due in part to the war, in part to the richer harvest of guaranteed fees in the cities. A visitor also hears that some doctors will hardly leave their offices to make calls, since the state guaranteed them a fee for everyone who walked into their offices. The tendency, too, is for doctors to send patients to hospital rather than attend them at home. It costs nothing! The scheme provides a free general practitioner service. It subsidizes the medical man as a general practitioner. What about the specialists? Several people told us the system had removed the doctor's incentive to improve his qualifications and become a specialist. The doctor with a genuine vocation for medicine will obviously still continue to improve his skill and knowledge, but the emphasis is upon the general practice.

Teacher and Aircraft Worker

Here is an Alberta man in a dual role, a role in which he has been helped by experience in a garage. Gleaned From Rural News

MILLET.—Annual meeting of the village of Millet was held in the community hall Feb. 4 with H. A. Fulcher in the chair. Mayor R. R. A mild form of scarlet fever has reached epidemic proportions in the village and until further notice the medical officer has closed the skating rink and cancelled meetings of the local Sea Cadets and Wolf Cubs.

The Millet curlers entertained two visiting rinks from Calmar Sunday. One rink was skipped by S. Swane, with Bill Curry, Meta

Six Alberta Fliers Saved in Crashes

COURTENAY, B.C., Feb. 9.—(CP)—Six airmen were rescued by a provincial police patrol boat from the wreckage of two R.C.A.F. planes off Cape Mudge, B.C., after the two aircraft crashed at sea Monday. None of the airmen was injured.

The police boat was on patrol when she saw the first plane crash and reported the accident by lamp signal to a Canadian airways seaplane. Minutes later a second plane which had been accompanying the aircraft which crashed into the sea, also crashed up.

All six men were picked up by the seaplane, transferred to the police boat and taken to nearby Campbell River, B.C., where one of them was taken to hospital suffering from shock and immersion. Names of the six men are: FO. D. F. Swiffen of Calgary, the airman in hospital; WO. J. E. Thomson, Bowden, Alta.; WO. S. Little, John. WO. C. B. McDonald, PO. R. D. Hall, WO. I. R. Pacific Strategy Aimed At Getting China Bases

By WILLIAM HIPPLE
PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, returning from an inspection of Kwajalein Atoll, said yesterday his aim is to get the forces under his command moving across the Pacific and setting up bases in China.

At his press conference, the commander-in-chief of the United States Pacific fleet said his object is "to get our ground and air forces into China as early as possible."

"In the last analysis," he continued, "I do not believe we can defeat Japan from the sea alone. That's the simple strategy of the Pacific war."

"Furthermore, we want air bases in China from which we can deliver air raids—not sporadic ones—but like those the Germans are receiving."

When reminded that most of the discussion of gaining Allied bases in China centred on the campaign from Burma, Nimitz said:

"It stands to reason we would land on all parts of China we could."

Nimitz would give no indication of the China offensive timetable but he said, "I think that if you'll watch the communiques, you'll see us moving on."

He said that in land and air operations Australian and United States troops had showed a definite superiority because both sides had started even as to ignorance of those elements "and we learned faster."

"The so-called superiority of the Japs as jungle fighters is a myth," he declared.

However, on amphibious operations the Japanese saw their patient 25 years of exploration of Pacific waters bear fruit. "Their ships patrolled these waters ceaselessly before the war and consequently their charts and maps were right up-to-date whereas we had to make them up as we went along."

Alberta Whitefish Is Found Diseased

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 9.—(CP)—Dr. C. A. Harris, medical health officer of London, told a meeting of the local board of health yesterday that the federal government intends to take action against sale of "diseased whitefish" being shipped from the western provinces.

Dr. Harris told the board that a shipment of diseased western whitefish recently was discovered at the Victoria hospital here and that shipments of whitefish, principally from Manitoba and Alberta, were being "continually rejected" at the United States border at such points as Windsor, Ont.

Whitefish are the only western fish which have been found diseased, Dr. Harris asserted. He added the fish could not be injurious if properly cooked but if not properly cooked it could be dangerous.

Three of a kind!

CANADIANS ARE ALL ALIKE in one important respect. They do their own thinking and get there under their own power. It's a national characteristic.

No pampered or servile people could have built this nation. It took men of courage and moral fibre to clear the forests, dig the mines—to build our farms and factories, our cities and our towns—to give us a standard of living that is the envy of the world. Canada's greatness stems directly from the self-reliance and initiative of individual citizens. These qualities provide a sure foundation on which to build for tomorrow.

What is PRIVATE ENTERPRISE?

It is the natural desire to make your own way, as far as your ability will take you; an instinct that has brought to this continent the highest standard of life enjoyed by any people on earth. It is the spirit of democracy on the march.

OF THE 23 visiting skips who were still alive in the Edmonton Breweries Ltd. (Grand Challenge) event on Tuesday morning, 12 fell by the wayside during the day, while 11 of the 23 city rinks were eliminated. Local curlers accordingly held just the odd rink advantage in the total of 23 survivors, 22 of whom went into action on the early draw today.

The list of undefeated rinks in the bonspiel would be reduced by at least two as a result of the 9 o'clock games, for Barth of Millet was to meet Kemp of the Royal and Matthews, also of the Royal, was scheduled to clash with Fynn of Pouce Coupe. The nine who had won four straight were all curling this morning.

Of the 23 skips ousted from the premier event yesterday, eight went out by a one-rock margin, while three were just two short. "Buster" Shaw of Vegreville and Latta of the Thistle were forced out after an extra end.

The 4:30 is the last draw today, making four instead of six, for all curlers in the 'spiel will be taking time out for the annual banquet which as usual is being held at the Macdonald.

"GIANT-KILLERS" MEET

A PAIR of giant killers, Mah Bow of Ponoka and I. Kalla, of Eckville who terminated the interest of Harold Haight's Calgaryans in the Challenge yesterday, were drawn against each other for the 9 o'clock today. The winner will meet the survivor of the Cliff Manahan-Bob Edwards bout to go into the fourth in the lower bracket.

Biggest end registered yesterday was Manahan's six against Tommy Darr on the 2 o'clock. The helpful half-dozen happened along in the fifth when Cliff was two down and he maintained the four margin until the end of the game.

Carr Two Points Behind

Herbie Cain Breaks Tie In N.H.L. Scoring Battle

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—(CP)—The tie between Herbie Cain of Boston and Lorne Carr of Toronto for the N.H.L. scoring leadership was broken at least temporarily Tuesday night when Cain assisted in a pair of goals to run his total points to 59, two more than the idle Carr.

The Boston star and Carr had both marked up one point prior to last night since the previous official scoring figures a week ago.

In a week that was generally low-scoring as far as the top-notchers were concerned, Bill Mosienko of Chicago added four points to slip in to third spot with a total of 52, four behind the leaders and one ahead of teammate Doug Bentley and the injured Bill Cowley of Boston.

Slackening of the pace of the leaders meant that for the first time since early in the season, the point-total of the pace-setters almost fell below the leading mark at the same period last year.

A year ago today, Cowley was leading the race with 58 points, only one less than the 59 held at present by Cain. However, at this time last year Cowley had played in 38 games while this year Cain has been in only 34 and Carr in 37.

The assist race tightened during the last week, with Elmer Lach and Buddy O'Connor of Canadiens and Clint Smith of the Hawks all bunched for first spot with 34 each, one more than Cowley. Cain continued as top goal-getter with an even 30, three more than Mud Bruneteau of Detroit and four more than Carr.

Mike McMahon of Canadiens remained the most penalized player in the league with 61 minutes in majors and minors.

Small Jap Boats Sunk in Attacks

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The United States Navy reported last night the sinking of several small Japanese boats at Jolo in a continuing assault on enemy-held Atolls in the Marshall Islands. The boats were sunk last Saturday, the report said, by search planes and fighters. American air attacks continued the following day.

The making of one-half pound of smokeless powder requires one pint of alcohol.

Three Outside and Six Local Skips With Four Straight Wins

Nine Rinks Remain Unbeaten in 'Spiel

Sixteens Reached in Six Events

NINE rinks, three of which were visiting, remained unbeaten at the end of the second day's play in the annual bonspiel of the Alberta Curling Association which began here on Monday morning.

Those still with unblemished records were Barth of Millet, Fynn from Pouce Coupe, and Rose of Sedgewick, along with Manahan, Kemp, McLaughlin, Matthews and Wolfe of the Royal and Coots of the Granite Club. All were to play on the early draw this morning and each had four wins.

Nine of the berths in the sixteens of the Edmonton Breweries Ltd. (Grand Challenge), King Edward Hotel and Bank of Montreal events had been filled with the completion of the last draw on Tuesday. There were also eight skips out in the 16's of the Eaton competition.

Six games were played in the Calgary Brewing (Visitors) yesterday which left only four vacancies in the sixteens. There were no draws in the Edmonton Motors (City) in which 12 rinks advanced to the 16's on Monday.

In addition to 12 games in the Edmonton Breweries Ltd. (Grand Challenge) event there were four in the Bank of Montreal on the 9 o'clock draw this morning. King Edward Hotel and further Bank of Montreal games were listed for the 11:30.

Only four draws are scheduled for today, as the annual banquet at the Macdonald takes place this evening.

Most of the outside rinks fared reasonably well on Tuesday, with perhaps the biggest surprise of the day the elimination from the Challenge of Harold Haight's strong Calgary aggregation by the Kalla quartet from Eckville. The Calgaryans were beaten 11-10 on the 2 o'clock draw.

Mah Bow and his all-Chinese rink from Ponoka, dropped a 9-8 decision to Father Rooney of Westlock at 4:30 after having knocked Lee of LaGrace out of the Challenge on the previous draw.

The Sky Pilots also slipped once yesterday. They were edged out 11-10 by Bob Edwards of Alberta Ave., but bounced right back with a 10-3 victory over Claire Anderson of Camrose.

Harold Ritchie and his Granite curlers stopped Bert Robinson's Jasper rink in the King Edward on the 4:30 by 11-9, despite two great shots by Robinson coming home.

There were six extra-end games on Tuesday, three of them on the early draw. Olsen Royal beat Shaw, Vegreville, in the Challenge 10-9, while Dr. Gamble of Sexsmith took a 7-6 verdict from Latta of the Thistle and Duitman, Wetaskiwin, tripping his fellow-townsmen Ell Abousaify 9-8.

The two extra sessions on the 4:30 were Gagnon's 9-8 win over Schultz, Bruderheim, and Shaw's 10-9 triumph over Brinkworth at 4:30. Greenough, Alberta Ave., edged out Aircraft Repair 10-9 on the late draw. Following are the complete results of Tuesday's games:

Bert Gardiner Scores Shutout As Canadiens are Stopped 3-0

BOSTON, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Boston Bruins in a surprising exhibition of offensive and defensive play, shut out the league-leading Montreal Canadiens 3-0 Tuesday before 12,000 at Boston Garden. It was goalie Bert Gardiner's first shut-out of the National Hockey League season and the second time this season that Montreal has been blanked.

The veteran Buzz Boll, with two third-period goals, assured the Bruins of the triumph which they earned after overcoming a first period hesitancy which ruined their efforts to capitalize on a Montreal manpower shortage in shortage in which two Canadiens were sent to the penalty box in the second frame, this time with ally box in a matter of seconds.

Prior to that, Boston had protected a 1-0 margin which rookie Russ Kopak provided in the late minutes of the first period by converting Al Rittinger's passout. The skate of Montreal's Bob Filion assisted in edging the puck into the net.

Herb Cain, high scoring Boston wing, regained the league's scoring lead by collecting assists on each of the Boll goals. The two points raised his total to 59, two ahead of the total of Lorne Carr, of Toronto, with whom he had been tied as he entered last night's game.

The victory also lifted the Bruins into a tie for fourth place in the National Hockey League's standings with Chicago Black Hawks. It was the fourth defeat of the season and their first shutout since their former goalie, Paul Bibeault, turned the trick on them last January 11 at Toronto.

Stadium Flyers Beat South Side In Bantam Loop

Taking a two-goal lead in the first period and never looking back, Stadium Flyers defeated South Side 8-1 on last night's Canadian Athletic Club's Bantam Hockey League game which was played on South Side ice.

Donald Haley with three, Stan Cudmore and Eddie Wiederspiel with two each and Elmer Erwin were the goal-getters for the Flyers. Eddie Morie scored unassisted for South Side.

Erwin from Dick Dehm and Cudmore unassisted gave the Flyers their first period lead.

Cudmore also counted again early in the second frame, this time with the help of Wiederspiel, before Freddie Morie secured the singleton for South Side.

Donald Haley then followed with three in a row, Peter Carp drawing two assists and Mike Baradash and Jack Grace one each. Eddie Wiederspiel netted the two in the third session, the first on a relay from Baradash and the second on a solo effort.

Y. Stops B.P.C. 23-18

Quartermasters Win 49-29 Over Saints in Cage Game

PROVING that they would supply very strong competition if they reached the Edmonton Men's Basketball League playoffs, U.S. Quartermasters overpowered Latter Day Saints 49-29 in the "A" section fixture at Westgate Tuesday night. Y.M.C.A. stopped B.P.C. 23-18 in the "B" division opener.

Artie Albert, Bill Flint and "Ollie" Ferrari came through in their usual manner to pace the Quartermasters, who have now defeated every team in the circuit except Engineers. Prior to last night Saints were tied with Yanks in second place.

The result supplied a chance for the Quartermasters to finish in a fourth place tie with U.S. Station Hospital. At the present time Hospital has four wins and five losses and Quartermasters, who have completed the schedule have four and six. Hospital has one more game to play, that being against the Yanks on Friday, and if they are beaten in that start a tie for fourth place will result.

The playoff arrangements have not yet been decided on, but if the league officials decide to include only the four top teams, Friday's game will have a definite bearing and may force an extra series.

Flint was high scorer of the night with 14 points while Evan Erickson was only two points behind in leading the losers who were offed by a couple of baskets in the first few minutes and were unable to get organized to a great enough extent to overcome the fast Quartermasters.

With Flint netting seven, Ferrari and Harold Glaser three each and Jack Guthrie two, the winners outscored the Saints 15-6 in the first quarter and went on to gain a 31-9 lead at half time by adding 16, tallied by Albert with six, Flint with five, Guthrie and Bert Culver with two each and Ferrari with one, while the L.D.S. squad was held to only three counters.

The winners slowed up in the last half, and although they were outscored 8-7 in the third session and 12-11 in the fourth, they were not pressed very hard to win out by 20 points. At the three-quarter mark, the Quartermasters were ahead 38-17.

Y. ENDS B.P.C. WINNING STREAK

After winning three games in as many starts in the second round of "B" section, Bechtel, Price, Callahan were stopped last night by the second place Y.M.C.A. club 23-18.

Only three players on the B.P.C. lineup entered the points column while all but one of the winners' team came through with at least one marker. Cliff McLeod topped the Y. club's squad with six counters, but was outscored by "Chuck" Saffell and Jack Kenton who marked up nine and seven respectively for the losers.

The first quarter was close when Y. took a 4-3 lead, but the B.P.C. team carried the play to the winners in the second session and added nine to the latter's four to enjoy a 12-8 margin at half time.

The lead was whipped out in the third canto, however, as Y.M.C.A. came through with seven to the losers' lone field goal to show the way at the three-quarter mark as the scoreboard read 15-14. They then went on to gain their victory by out-scoring B.P.C. 8-4 in the final chapter.

Sask. Huskies May Play Bears Saturday Next

Plans were almost complete last night whereby the University of Saskatchewan men's basketball team would play a two-game series against Alberta's Golden Bears here on Saturday.

The Huggill trophy, at present held by the Huskies will be at stake, with total points on the two games to govern. Suggested playing times are 2:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Should the Saskatchewan cagers come this will mark the resumption of intercollegiate basketball after a lapse of one year, the last series having been played in 1942.

Some difficulty is being experienced in securing a local gym for staging the series, but the committee is hopeful of solving the problem today.

The local Varsity team will not be making a return trip to Saskatoon as in former years, due to the ban on travel imposed by the University of Alberta War Services Board.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Earl Mann—husky, young president of the Atlanta Crackers—remarked in his soothing, southern drawl, "we're shore going to have a big time in Atlanta on pennant-raising day, along in the latter part of May."

"Pennant-raising day? How come?" asked one of the reporters in the Astor lobby. "Atlanta didn't win any pennant in 1943. Why, the Crackers finished last in the season's second half."

Big Earl chuckled amiably; shifted about in the leather, lobby chair, and explained, "You got me wrong; I'm not talking about any pennant for the Crackers. I'm talking about a pennant for the Georgia fans. They're the champion fans in the Southern Association. In addition to earning a pennant they've earned national recognition; and they're going to get it."

"They led the Southern Association in attendance last season—for the 10th consecutive year. I don't believe the fans in any other area—not even the New York Yankees—ever made a record like that."

"To officials of the Atlanta club, this achievement is doubly remarkable because it was completed in war time, and with little stimulation from a last-place club. We drew 124,037 paid attendance to our home games last season. We didn't expect anything like that, because we knew the war-pressure under which the people of Georgia are working."

Praxy Mann, warmed up now like a bull-pen pitcher, declared that the completion of this decade of top turnouts, despite adverse conditions, proved: (1) That Georgians are the hottest baseball fans in the country, and (2) That they are "the nation's most unfailingly loyal fans to their home club."

Total paid attendance for the Southern Association last season was about 721,000, he said. This was about 30,000 less than '42.

He concluded, "Club owners throughout our league are more confident about the approaching season than they were at this time last year. The fans showed us they want baseball; and now it's up to us to get them the best players we can. We're mighty busy on that job now."

"PLEASE don't say anything to the new cook, George. It may merely be the kitchen on fire!"

Many Compete In Westmount Ice Carnival

The Westmount school staged a successful ice carnival last Friday night at the Westmount Community rink and there was keen competition among boys and girls for many prizes, including nearly $50 in war savings stamps.

The carnival opened with a hard-fought hockey game, Grade Eight vs. Grade Nine, in which spectacular goal-keeping by Jim Kinnear, Grade Eight, was an outstanding feature. In spite of the valiant efforts of both teams the result was a draw.

Nancy Clegg was the popular winner of the lucky ticket draw, winning a $5 war savings certificate.

Following were the winners of the various events:

Masquerade competition: (a) Boys under 8: John Hall, Ralph Haravey, John Forbes; (b) girls under 8: Pat Johnson, Rhoda Valens, Florence Young; (c) boys 8-16: Pat Plunkett, Robert Swindhurst, Bob Bryant; (d) girls 8-16: Beryl Catlow, Joyce May, Shirley Grills.

Speed skating: (1) boys under 8: Keith Hamly; George Congrave; (2) girls under 8: Kay Clark, Alice Powers; (3) boys under 10: Billy Hobbs, Lawrence Gullavin, Mickey Lubin; (4) girls under 10: Irene Kitchen, Dorothy Fraser, Dorothy Powers; (5) boys under 12: Roy Kinnear, Gordon Wilson, Jim Kinnear, Bill Wagner; (6) girls under 12: Shirley Rock, Barbara Robertson, Maxine Adams; (7) boys under 14: Lee Velford, Douglas McKeay, George Cowden; (8) girls under 14: Elaine Knott, Barbara Keddy, Lenore Meredith; (9) boys under 16: Jack Cronin, Ernest Gullavin, Jim Kinnear, Bill Wagner; (10) girls under 16: Pat Gunn, Dorothy Brown; (11) boys delivery: Ned Young, Fred Parvey; (12) girls delivery: Alwyn Kaine, Barbara Robertson, Anne Thornhill; (13) ladies' half mile: Pat Gunn, Dorothy Brown; (14) men's mile: Richard Rock, Donald Smiley, Jack Cronin; (15) partners: Pat Gunn and Richard Rock, Dorothy Brown and Don Knable; (16) backward race: Dick Rock, Pat Gunn, Floyd Briggs.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt signed a proclamation yesterday putting into effect the repeal of the Chinese Exclusion Act and fixing a Chinese immigration quota of 105 persons a year.

Calder Bantams Are Beaten 3-2 By West Enders

Dave McKenzie's West Enders edged out Calder 3-2 in the Canadian Athletic club's Bantam Hockey league game played Tuesday night on the Calder Community rink.

Buddy Loftus scored all three goals for the winners, with Ernie McKernan, Roy Pilon and Doug Stewart, drawing the assists.

Jules Soetart netted both of the Calder counters and each time the play was set up by Charlie Duncan.

Lloydminster Beats Wilkie

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
LOYDMINSTER, Feb. 9.—The Wilkie Juniors, entrants in the Saskatchewan playoffs ran into a snag at the Lloydminster arena recently when they tackled the Lloydminster hockey club. Although not credited with being an above average club the locals had plenty of strength to run in a total of seven counters in the last frame when they completely outskated the youngsters and their feet to make the final count, 10-3.

Possessing a few fast skaters, and average stick handlers, the visiting club proved weak on the offensive.

Is "Kentucky" Preview Nominees Announced For Louisiana Derby

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The Fair Grounds Association announced Tuesday nominees for the $15,000 Louisiana Derby and the $25,000-added New Orleans Handicap, preparatory to shutting down the winter meeting here with a glossy surge of fancy-priced horse flesh.

Richest stake races on the New Orleans program, these two events draw some of the country's creamiest speedsters. Next Saturday's derby is of interest to horsemen as a Kentucky Derby preview, and the $25,000 test is of equal interest for obvious reasons.

Standouts among 21 nominees for the $15,000 event at a mile and a furlong are such perky three-year-olds as Mrs. T. J. Carroll's Weyanoke, Bobanet Stable's Gay Bit and William Helis' valdina Zenith. Veteran horsemen liked the way Gay Bit boomed out of the blue in the Lake Providence Handicap last Friday and ran over a crack field.

The Bobanet Stable thinks enough of Gay Bit to enter him in both the Derby and the Handicap; he'll be the only three-year-old running in the latter affair, which is for three-year-olds and up.

Lt.-Col. C. V. Whitney's Pukka Gin, who got around in a hurry back east last fall and was expected to make the Derby, failed to round into shape and has yet to make a start here.

Back to defend his crown in the New Orleans Handicap, Saturday, Feb. 19, is Marriage, Coward and Dupuy's iron-hearted old gelding.

Last year Marriage was given little chance to come out on top but the old campaigner flashed a stretch sprint which proved ruinous to the Dopesters, and paid $75 for $2.

The Irish bred Rounders, which took a licking from Marriage in that race, is also entered for a repeat performance. The test is for three-year-olds and up.

Baseball Meeting Concludes Official Brooklyn Sources Say No Dodger Shares Sold

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Every pal and gal in Flat-bush has a "sold" sign hanging on the Brooklyn Dodgers but all official sources connected with the stock of the National League club say that not a single share has changed hands or is under option.

This was the latest development, as after four days of conferences, visiting baseball moguls packed up and headed home Tuesday after the National League concluded its spring meeting by granting full approval to all recommendations of the post-war planning committee.

In the complicated Brooklyn situation the latest development is that Max Meyer, who has been named as heading a syndicate to buy the franchise, does not have any definite option on the 25 per cent of the club owned by the estate of the late Edward J. McKeever, according to Steve Ryan, a Brooklyn director and administrator of the McKeever estate.

Ryan admitted he had talked with Meyer but that he "was not bound in any way at all" and there had been no limit, implied or otherwise, mentioned in their conversations. He repeated an earlier statement: anything is for sale for a price.

The 50 per cent of the stock owned by various heirs of the late Charles Ebbets could mean control of the Dodgers if Meyer is able to conclude a deal for the McKeever shares on which he was reported to have held an option.

George V. McLaughlin of the Brooklyn Trust Co., which holds a loan against the Ebbets stock, said yesterday that discussions with Meyer still are in the preliminary stages.

American League owners scattered without a meeting but National League owners held a three-hour session after which President Ford Frick announced the April 18 opening day pairings as Boston at New York, Brooklyn at Philadelphia, Chicago at Cincinnati and Pittsburgh at St. Louis.

For the second opening, April 21, New York will be at Brooklyn, Philadelphia at Boston, Cincinnati at Pittsburgh and St. Louis at Chicago. The season will end on Oct. 1.

Bermuda Rejects Offer by Canada To Provide Flour

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Bermuda has turned down an offer by Canada to provide flour free of charge to this British colony under the Dominion mutual aid plan. The House of Assembly was told yesterday by H. J. Tucker in a speech stressing Bermuda's desire to remain financially independent.

"We acknowledged with gratitude receipt of the offer of free flour," Tucker said, "but we turned it down because we felt Bermuda should accept nothing from anyone. We have a regard for financial integrity and independence which we ought to preserve."

Tucker informed the House that to date the colony had accepted nothing on lend-lease terms.

Scona Defeats Westglen 3-2 School Hockey

Strathcona defeated Westglen 3-2 yesterday afternoon in a senior high school hockey battle held at the Scona rink. This is a first of a series of challenge games to determine the new holder of the cup.

Both teams lacked spirit during the early part of the first stanza, but soon warmed up when Lawrence Milner of Westglen made the opening score on an assist by Bob Cuthbertson.

The second period was very active with three goals made. Neil Taylor, assisted by Jim Thomson, scored immediately after the starting bell had sounded and it wasn't long before Don Gerlitz assisted Nyles Christenson in bringing Scona's total to two. Jim Halliday knocked the puck into the net after Clem Kerr had passed out to a very favorable position to deadlock the count.

The final lap was a hectic one with a 2-2 tie maintaining until the last minute of play when Christenson again scored, this time on a pass from Bob Causgrove.

The goalies on both teams turned in outstanding performances, but they were left unguarded many times.

Jack Brown was an outstanding player as was Jim Fleming for the losers while Bob Causgrove and Don Robertson did exceptionally well for Scona.

Many From Front Lines Fighters Arriving at Algiers For Allied Championship Bouts

By GEORGE TUCKER
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Allied pugilists of all weights and ranks began arriving yesterday for their final tuneup for the free-for-all Allied championship bouts scheduled to start in Algiers next Monday.

Many of the fighters, professional and amateur are from the fighting fronts especially for these bouts. Some still wore the dirt of the bitter campaigning around the Cassino (Italy) sector when they checked into fight headquarters at nearby Palm Beach, a palm-fringed guest camp by the sea commanded by First Lt. C. Mark Thomas of San Antonio, Texas.

Among the first arrivals was Pte. Walter Zippel, a light heavyweight of Hollywood, Calif. He suffered a badly cut left eye in a preliminary bout two weeks ago, but said it did not bother him.

Cpl. Charles Sherman, of Greenville, Miss., is regarded as a dark horse in the lightweight class. He scored a stunning upset in the early eliminations when he defeated Pte. Vincent J. Gawlatto, of Philadelphia, who twice had reached the finals of the golden gloves and diamond belt competition in New York and Philadelphia.

There will be in all 84 finalists among American, British, French, Polish, Greek and other Allied troops. Each bout will consist of three two-minute rounds. In event of a draw an additional round will be fought.

The caretaker of the camp, who is busy giving the boys advice, is Joe Pataux, a 37-year-old ex-battender from New York's old Plaza hotel who claims he once fought Stanley Ketchel of Jersey City, N.J., and was knocked out in four rounds.

Marcel Cerdau, French welterweight, whose scheduled trip to the United States in 1930 was cancelled at the outbreak of war, is regarded as the outstanding professional fighter.

Coal Production Continues Decline

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—The Dominion bureau of statistics reported yesterday Canada's production of coal in December amounted to 1,609,349 tons, a decline of 130,351 from the December, 1942 tonnage. Output during 1943 aggregated 17,786,582 tons, compared with 18,865,030 in 1942, a decrease of 1,078,468 tons, or a monthly average reduction during the year of approximately 90,000 tons.

House Rejects C.C.F. Motion By 173 to 20

mediate needs and employment of those in the forces on demobilization.

Failed to provide adequate measures so agriculture could make its maximum war and peace contribution through a long-range program.

Failed to establish a national code for labor to ensure maximum production and give the workers a rightful place in the national partnership; and failed to lessen bureaucratic controls and recognize and restore the supremacy of parliament.

"SHARPEST WORDS"
The sharpest words hurled this session between one political group and another were thrown at the C.C.F. members by Rev. E. G. Hansell (N.D.-Macleod). However, a few minutes later he and his fellows voted for the C.C.F. sub-amendment.

Mr. Hansell complained of the indefiniteness of the sub-amendment and said New Democracy members would probably place one interpretation on it and the C.C.F. another. New Democracy members, he said, were not opposed to fundamental social change but were opposed to socialism.

M. J. Caldwell, C.C.F. leader, suggested Mr. Hansell get "a mind that is not confused." Then Mr. Hansell opened up on the C.C.F. and its leader while Liberals and Progressive Conservatives applauded.

CRITICIZES REMARKS
He said New Democracy had tried to work with the C.C.F. but Mr. Caldwell had gone into Alberta and said New Democracy was the weakest group in the house. Such remarks did not make for friendship and co-operation.

"I am not a Socialist," he said. "I am not a Communist—but if I ever were I would rather follow Tim Buck than the member for Rosetown-Biggar (Mr. Caldwell)."

Tim Buck, said Mr. Hansell, stated what Socialism meant and made no bones about it. Mr. Caldwell did not know where he was going and if he got into power he would have to consult his advisers. He asked who these advisers were and said that perhaps Mr. Caldwell would turn to Tim Buck.

RACKET ON INTEREST
Anthony Hlynka (N.D.-Vegreville) said the government permitted a racket in allowing farmers to be charged high interest rates. He advanced Social Credit as a philosophy which could cure Canadian problems by supplying purchasing power to the people.

Stanley Knowles, C.C.F., Winnipeg North Centre, expressed skepticism about the government's social security measures on the ground that the economic base for social security had not been provided.

Maurice Bourget (L. Levis) urged appointment of more conciliation officers in the labor department. He said some labor disputes were dragged on because of lack of staff in the department to deal with them.

URGES NEW PROCEDURE
At the afternoon session, Robert Gladstone (L. Wellington South) called for more business-like methods in parliament and a change in procedure so members might vote on issues according to their own opinions and not according to party viewpoints.

A demand for federal disallowance of the provincial act extending the life of the Saskatchewan legislature was made by J. W. Burton (C.C.F., Humboldt), making his maiden speech.

C. E. Johnston (N.D., Bow River) said he welcomed the promise of family allowances in the speech from the throne and saw in the proposal adoption of part of the Social Credit policy of a national dividend. He said he could see no reason why such allowances should be limited to children and that adults also should receive a national dividend.

Mr. Johnston said statements were constantly appearing in the press suggesting the war would be over this year. One had been made recently by Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery. He said this was contrary to the view of Prime Minister Mackenzie King as stated in the House and had for motive. The war was far from over and a total war effort still was necessary.

PROPOSES CENSORSHIP
"It seems to me we should begin to censor some of these statements," he said.

Some Selective Service Boards were a "disgrace to Canada." He had gone to the board at Calgary to get permission for a man not then required on the farm to work in an essential industry—the mines at Kimberley, B.C. The man had been threatened with being put in the army unless he went where Selective Service told him to.

"That Calgary Selective Service office needs a house-cleaning," said Mr. Johnston. "Neglective Service some people call it."

The Selective Service organization was bureaucratic. Mr. Johnston said the dependents of some men serving overseas were barely eking out an existence. More generous treatment for dependents should be considered, said Mr. Johnston. It was "non-sense" to expect industry to give jobs to all men who went overseas. Markets for farm products must be assured before men were settled on the land.

The proposed family allowances represented a national dividend such as had been suggested by Social Crediters; but they represented only an aid to a minimum standard when there should actually be a more general national dividend benefiting all Canadians. But no such dividend should be used as a means of lowering wages, Mr. Johnston said.

Labor was to have one representative in six on the national war labor board and this was a "disgrace." Labor would "not have a ghost of a show in getting justice," Mr. Johnston said adjustments in agriculture prices still were necessary.

Mr. Gladstone, a studious Guelph, Ont., manufacturer who first was elected to parliament eight years ago, has been speaking on his idea for more businesslike methods for parliament since 1937.

RECOVER CONFIDENCE
"There is need for recovering the confidence of Canadians in their parliament as an institution for safeguarding and promoting equality of rights and equality of opportunity for all," he said.

"To this need members of the government, especially in this time of world crisis, ought to exercise their right to advocate and consider legislation with less regard to party affiliation. Members now have freedom in theory, but not in general practice, of voting according to their judgment. Consequently, I advocate that the defeat of a government measure should not constitute defeat of the government."

"Confidence or want-of-confidence in the government, after non-acceptance of proposed legislation, should be determined by a separate vote."

Mr. Burton said in the federal by-election last year which resulted in his election to parliament, the voters of Humboldt constituency voted "want of confidence in the government" on five issues:

LISTED FIVE ISSUES
1—Failure of the government to "protect the democratic rights of the people."

2—Hampering of the war effort "by allowing the profit motive to dominate the war industries."

3—Refusal to place agriculture on an "equitable basis" with other essential industries.

4—Failure to solve the manpower problem.

5—Hampering farmers and small businessmen by "unnecessary and bureaucratic restrictions and controls."

"When political expediency takes precedence over the safety of our country, when political patronage supersedes justice, then the people demand a change of government," said Mr. Burton.

In the by-election in which he was elected, the Liberals had indicated in some districts that only a Liberal administration could be entrusted to conduct an all-out war effort. In other places the argument had been that the Liberal candidate was the only one who could get men out of the army.

"MEANT BUSINESS"
Mr. Burton said he believed the price of wheat had been raised from 90 cents a bushel, basis No. 1 at Fort William, to $1.25 because the federal government had realized the western farmers "meant business" after the C.C.F. victory in Humboldt.

The car-allocation system in the west was "unfair." Co-operatively-owned elevators were able to handle less business because railway cars were not available to move out grain in sufficient quantity.

Reynolds Packard said savage fighting was in progress. Packard reported that the Germans twice bent back the Allied lines in a series of onslaughts that began late Monday night, only to lose their hard-fought gains when the Allied troops counter-attacked.

Another pooled dispatch from Daniel de Luce said the British end of the Allied line bore the main weight of the attack, and reported that no "vital" ground had been lost.

BERLIN CLAIMS

(The Nazi Transocean News Agency said the British 56th Infantry division was being evacuated by sea from the beachhead and asserted that the alleged retreat proved the Allies had suffered "tremendous" losses.)

(Allied medium bombers joined in the battle of the beachhead yesterday, striking in two waves at Cisterna, where the Germans were reported massing troops and tanks for their counter-offensive.

Returning crewmen said the attack was highly successful, and one bombardier declared that "if there were any tanks in that town they were blown apart."

On the 5th Army's southern front, meanwhile, the bloody battle for Cassino thundered into its ninth day and front dispatches indicated the showdown fight for that embattled stronghold was in full swing.

FULL-SCALE ATTACK

British United Press War Correspondent Dana Adams Schmidt reported that American tanks and infantrymen hurled a full-scale attack against the town at four a.m. yesterday.

Allied artillery massed on the heights overlooking the town poured a murderous rain of fire down on the beleaguered Nazi defenders.

Schmidt reported that an American armored column struck toward Cassino over the mountain road from the northeast while an infantry force smashed down on the town from the north.

German troops were reported still astride the crest of Abbey Hill above Cassino, barring the way to the Via Cassina, only a mile further west, and it was indicated that one arm of the American force was attempting to cut across that highway to sever the last supply route to the Germans inside Cassino.

On the American left flank, British units of the 5th Army launched a new attack in the Aurunci mountains three and one-half miles west of the lower Garigliano river. British forces drove forward about a mile in the face of strong resistance and captured Mount Cerasola.

Bitter patrol clashes were reported over the British 8th Army's Adriatic front, and the communiqué said heavy casualties were inflicted yesterday on a German raiding party.

One Man Killed, Several Injured In Powder Blast

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Joseph Dallaire of Arvida, Que., died in hospital there last night a few hours after Aluminum Company of Canada officials announced that eight persons were injured when an explosion destroyed a portion of the company's aluminum powder plant at Arvida.

Cause of the explosion was not known. The plant, removed from other buildings of the Arvida development and engaged in making powder for incendiary bombs, had been inspected Monday.

It was believed the blast would curtail but not stop production in the powder plant.

Support Chinese

CHUNGKING, Feb. 9.—(AP)—United States medium and fighter-bombers have ranged over French Indo-China and Central China, bombing and strafing Japanese rail and river transport in support of the Chinese for the past two days, a communiqué said today.

blissings of this government, has been playing sugar-daddy at our expense to the very interests that are opposed to our co-operatively-owned elevators," said Mr. Burton.

Complete Preparations for Opening Alberta Legislature

Highly-Important Session To Get Under Way Thursday; Will Welcome New Member

In an unusual ceremony which will take place Thursday immediately after adjournment of the opening sitting of the ninth Alberta Legislature's fourth session, Premier Ernest Manning will unveil a large oil portrait of the late Premier William Aberhart, it was announced here Wednesday.

The unveiling will take place in the Legislative Assembly chamber, after brief opening ceremonies of a wartime legislative session are concluded.

The portrait of Mr. Aberhart was painted by Nicholas de Grandmaison, well-known portrait artist now living at Banff. Forty-eight by fifty-six inches in size, and showing the late premier at his office desk, the picture is to hang in a prominent position in a Legislative Building corridor after its unveiling.

His Honor Lt.-Gov. J. C. Bowen will formally open the fourth session of the province's ninth Legislature at 3 p.m. Thursday, when he reads the Speech from the Throne.

He will be escorted into the chamber by two aides-de-camp. Wing Commander Ewart G. Macpherson, officer commanding No. 4 I.T.S., R.C.A.F., and Lt.-Cmdr. J. A. Dawson, officer commanding Edmonton detachment, R.C.N.V.R., and four honorary aides-de-camp who will enter in the following order: Lt.-Col. P. S. Warren, officer commanding the University of Alberta contingent, C.O.T.C.; Lt.-Col. W. F. W. Hancock, assistant commissioner, R.C.M.P.; Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M., area commander, and Maj.-Gen. W. W. Foster, C.M.G., D.S.O., E.D., special commissioner for Northwest defence projects, Maj. C. V. Dacre, secretary to His Honor, will assist in the opening ceremonies.

After the lieutenant-governor has read the Throne Speech and retired from the assembly chamber, Clerk of the Legislative Assembly Robert A. Anderson will read the election certificate of David A. Ure, Social Credit M.L.A. for Red Deer.

TO ENTER CHAMBER

Mr. Ure will then be escorted from the Bar of the House, at the entrance doors, to Mr. Speaker Peter Dawson, by Premier Ernest Manning and another government member. After having been introduced to the Speaker, Mr. Ure will take his seat with government M.L.A.s.

Following the introduction of one or two bills by cabinet ministers, and the naming of a committee to appoint standing committees of the House, the Legislature will adjourn until 3 p.m. Friday, when Mr. Ure and S. A. Berg, Social Credit M.L.A. for Alexandra, will move and second the House reply to the Speech from the Throne.

After adjournment, the portrait unveiling ceremony will take place on the government side of the legislative chambers.

Youth to Face New Problems With Courage

"Youth will face post-war problems with greater courage, and a great deal more ease if it does so in the light of practical Christianity—Christianity that emanates not only from the heart but is demonstrated in thought, word and deed," William Ross, Salvation Army adjutant, Toronto, said on his arrival here Wednesday.

"If the older people are going to give youth the inspiration and the leadership which it is going to require, they too must learn to find their inspiration in a great leader—and there is none greater than the founder of Christianity—Our Lord, Jesus Christ," he said.

In Edmonton with Mrs. Ross for a 12-day campaign as part of a tour to give impetus to the Salvation Army's "Forward to Victory" campaign, Adj. Ross said he found on his tour "that religion properly presented still has a real drawing power for young people."

He said that he found that in many cases the lack of religion was due to the fact that it was not presented in its true form.

WANT ACTION

"Practical Christianity, that can be applied to the every day life, is what young people are interested in and what they will follow. They are not too much impressed with religion that is theoretical or mystical, but want to see it in action," he said.

Adj. Ross stressed the fact that "The original purpose of the Salvation Army was and still is to fight sin. While it has taken on multifarious tasks since the war, such as helping the boys, our war work, social work and other activities, our aim is always towards the fulfilment of our spiritual goal."

He said that the Salvation Army's work has been materially strengthened as a result of its war work which in turn increased the spiritual fervor and the positiveness of "our attack on sin."

TO DEVELOP WORK

He expressed the belief that the "Forward to Victory" campaign will develop the Salvation Army work in this community.

Mrs. Ross, the former Sadie Stevenson of Edmonton, is thrilled at her first official visit to Edmonton since she enlisted in the Salvation Army 15 years ago.

"There's no city like this on the face of the earth," she said.

A full program has been planned for Adj. and Mrs. Ross during the campaign. They will conduct the services at the Citadel beginning Feb. 10 through to Feb. 21.

Adj. Ross is scheduled to address meetings of the Lions, Kiwanis, and Optimist clubs and will be guest speaker at the Salvation Army "Christian Youth Rally" to be held at the Citadel Friday at 8 p.m.

May Issue Warrant For Winnipeg Man

Unless Joseph Burkowski and James VanAlkin, Winnipeg, have paid fines levied against them following their guilty pleas on charges of conspiring to import liquor into Alberta are paid by Friday, bench warrants for their arrest will be executed in supreme court Wednesday.

Request for further time to pay the fines, which were to have been paid on Tuesday, was made by Neil P. Macleod, K.C. counsel for Burkowski and VanAlkin. He told the court that he had a portion of both fines in hand, and would have the remainder within a few days.

Burkowski was fined $1,000, or in default of payment to serve six months in jail, and VanAlkin $750, or in default to serve four months.

J. W. McClung, K.C., crown prosecutor, asked that bench warrants be issued for the arrest of the two men. This request was granted, but the court ordered that the warrants be not acted upon until Saturday.

Two juveniles, 11 and 12 years old, respectively, were in the hands of police Tuesday, while a third ran away and escaped from the truck beside which they were found on 103 street.

Police observed one of the trio in the act of removing a parcel from under the tarpaulin covering the loaded truck driven by Norman Reed, 150 street and 102 avenue, as the operator was making a call.

The parcel contained a carton of cigarettes and two cartons of candy bars, with a total value of $7.80. Nothing had been taken from the vehicle, Reed told police who took the youths to headquarters. They were handed over later to juvenile authorities.

Social Credit Continues With Caucus Meeting

Caucus meetings of Social Credit members of the Alberta Legislature continued here Wednesday morning, after all-day sessions Tuesday.

Yesterday's meetings considered impending legislation with afternoon discussions centering around bills to be brought in the House for approval from the departments of municipal affairs, trade and industry, attorney-general, and provincial secretary.

The caucus also arranged a definite schedule for caucus gatherings, to be held while the Legislature is sitting. The M.L.A.s will meet Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings, and Thursday evenings, unless standing House committee meetings interfere.

With the caucus considering proposed legislation all day Tuesday, indications point to an extensive budget of bills to be brought into the House by the government. Last year, bills were held to a minimum because of the just-completed revision of Alberta statutes.

James Hartley, Macleod, is caucus chairman, and William Tomyn, Willingdon, secretary.

Youth Parley Is Scheduled For Next Month

The Edmonton Youth Commission Conference Committee, at a meeting at the Y.M.C.A. Tuesday night, announced that a conference of representatives of city youth organizations will be held early in March.

About 150 to 200 delegates are expected to attend to discuss both current and post-war problems facing the youth of Edmonton.

The results will be turned over to the Canadian Youth Commission for consolidation with studies made by young people all over Canada, and formulated into a far-reaching representative program for Canadian youth in the post-war period.

The following were elected to the executive board of the conference committee: Arthur Hanyse, chairman; Frances Latter, chairperson of the program committee; Betty Booth, chairman of the promotion and publicity committee; Jim Cowley, chairman of the arrangements committee, and Lois Neilson, secretary.

The committee is planning to contact city youth groups at an early date and invites the support of all interested adults and young persons.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION
What do you consider is the most enjoyable way to spend a free afternoon or evening?

THE ANSWERS

MRS. L. BLACK, housewife: Bowling is our favorite recreation. I go twice a week now, and maybe more often if we can make up a party. I play on two teams, and really have a wonderful time. Next to bowling, both my husband and myself like going to shows.

IRENE TAIT, stenographer: At this time of year, skating, I really love it, and most of the girls in our little crowd feel the same way about it. In the summer, we prefer dancing, and have a dancing party every week. But right now while the ice is good, we have no time for dancing, as we're always out on our skates.

MARGUERITE BARKER, clerk: Everyone at our place is a bridge fan, and we are always playing cards. We try and have a tournament twice a month, but with so many things going on right now, that's sometimes hard. One thing about card games is that they can be played the year around, and are not dependent on the weather.

Airmen Overseas

Word has been received here of the arrival overseas of several Edmonton airmen including P.O. G. F. Ockenden, Ptl. Lt. S. C. McLeod and B. W. Miesner.

Forecasts City As Important Airway Centre

Edmonton will be one of the most important airports on the great circle air routes in the post-war period, Lord Sempill, Ottawa, British representative on the National War Services Council, stated on his arrival here Wednesday to confer with National War Services Council officials in Edmonton on plans for expansion of services to meet the needs of the men of the armed services in the field when the invasion of the continent starts.

He will confer with His Grace Archbishop H. J. Macdonald, H. L. Weir, chairman of the National War Services Council here, and other officials.

Lord Sempill is a pioneer in aviation and has been a member of many British missions to foreign countries dealing with the development of aviation.

He has been flying for more than 32 years, and was one of the first British airmen to make the flight from Britain to Australia. During the last war he was a member of the British aviation mission that visited the United States and Canada.

Commenting on the Pacific war, Lord Sempill said that there was reasonable assurance that Germany would be defeated before the end of 1944, but there was no reason for wishful thinking that the Japanese would be easily defeated after the collapse of Germany.

The country over which the combined forces of the United Nations has to fight to defeat the Japanese is the most difficult in the world. The troops have to contend with an enemy that will fight to the last man in country splendidly adapted to defensive fighting, and in addition to the natural difficulties they will have to face the physical difficulties of the tropical jungles.

He said that even with the combined efforts of the United Nations the defeat of the Japanese will be a long, bloody and tremendous task. Lord Sempill is particularly interested in the work being carried out by the Knights of Columbus for troops in the field. He said that the four organizations giving war services to the troops—the Canadian Legion, Salvation Army, Knights of Columbus and the Y.M.C.A.—are doing a magnificent job.

He said that in the landing in Sicily nine supervisors went ashore with the troops and established their stations rapidly so that comforts could be made available to the men coming back to rest billets.

While not engaged in the erecting of these stations they took on all types of useful work such as directing traffic and other jobs, he said.

Lord Sempill will stop over here for several days, and will visit the memorial to Governor Sempill at Five Oaks, Man., on his return to Ottawa.

Boys' Work Theme Of Club Meeting

National personnel secretary of the Y.M.C.A., F. G. Hubbard, was guest speaker at a supper meeting of the Y's Men's Club at the Y.M.C.A. Tuesday night. Harold Sprague was chairman.

Mr. Hubbard traced the history and growth of boys' work and pointed out that this phase of "Y" activity was first launched as a means of keeping boys off the street.

A full-fledged program of activity now, he said, supported by other organizations including service clubs' boys' work is now designed to develop personalities, social relationships, a fuller enjoyment of "boyhood" and thus a greater preparation for the responsibilities of adulthood.

Following Mr. Hubbard's address, Bill Pettigrew spoke briefly on "an intelligent interest in politics."

Kiwanis Glee Club Entertains Troops

Members of the Kiwanis Glee Club were guests of Major Rae at the "Sally Ann" Hut, (Salvation Army centre) Tuesday night and a dance-song-skit program was warmly received by a packed audience.

Mrs. Donald Sims was at the piano. E. F. McGarvey led the club in songs and A. M. MacDonald was master of ceremonies.

Glee club members, Jack Strachan and Alex Cameron, featured players on the program, performed their comical skits.

The glee club has been entertaining for various groups, especially military, and is scheduled to appear next at the Wetaskawin Army Training Centre on Feb. 23.

Other bookings until April include the No. 2 A.O.S., the No. 3 "M" Depot and the Women's Army Training Centre at Vermilion.

The scholarship was awarded by the provincial chapter of the I.O.D.E.

An open forum discussion was held Monday by members of the Riverdale Community league, when the ward system of civic government was the subject. Ben Hager, director of debates, read reports on the system from other Canadian and American cities, and later the members voted in favor of adopting the plan here. Extension of the city bus service so as to serve the south portion was urged. A program of plays and educational films will be held by the R.C.L. on Feb. 25.

A total of $1,068.75 worth of War Savings Stamps was sold from the Stamp Bar at the corner of 101 street and Jasper avenue and by other miscellaneous sales during the week of Feb. 1 to Feb. 7. The Greater Edmonton Rifle Association, through necessity, is looking for a new shooting range and club rooms. This sports club has been operating in the city for eight years, developing shooting interest and ability among men, women and teen-aged boys. City and Dominion competitions are held each year, for many trophies and cups. Shoot-offs for Canadian Small Bore Association annual awards are now in progress. If anyone knows of a suitable location so that these people can go on with their training of civilian shooters, and boys to make expert shots, contact Archie Browning, of the Jantons' Supplies.

2 Are Injured As Cars Crash In City Street

One person was admitted to hospital for examination but later allowed to leave, while another complained of a sore side, after the autos in which they were riding, collided late Tuesday at 103 avenue and 100 street.

They were Mrs. Vena Martin, 66-year-old Edmonton resident, who was taken to the General hospital by Smith ambulance, and W. A. Findlay, Vermilion.

Archie J. Martin told authorities he was driving the car south on 100 street with his wife in the front seat beside him. When he saw the other auto, driven by George C. Rowat, of Dewberry, he had no time to get out of the way, and that in the impact following, he lost control of the speed of the other car at 40 miles an hour.

Rowat said he was driving east on 103 avenue and slowed down as he approached 100 street. He saw no traffic from the south, but suddenly saw the car coming from the north. Although he applied his brakes, the two vehicles collided. Findlay was a passenger in the front seat of the latter auto.

Rowat, who appeared before Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C., in city police court Wednesday morning, pleaded guilty to the charge of dangerous driving and was fined $20 or 30 days.

Miner Injured

Arthur Loxam, 9913 77 street, miner at the Red Hot Mine, Forest Heights, was admitted to the Royal Alexandra hospital about 4:30 a.m. Wednesday, suffering with crushed ribs. He was removed from the scene of the accident by Smith's ambulance. His condition was said to be "good."

New Facilities For Physical Classes Asked

Because of the growing interest in the physical training program being sponsored by the Mountglen Home and School Association, present gymnasium facilities are no longer adequate and a delegation from the association appeared before the Edmonton Public School Board Tuesday night to request additional privileges for the program.

The program which was first begun in January with a registration of 115 junior pupils of Westmount and Mountglen schools, included several evenings a week of supervised physical training and games in the Westmount gymnasium. The pupils have responded so enthusiastically to the plan that now approximately 300 boys and girls are attending the classes, and high school students have requested a similar program.

PROGRAM LAUNCHED

With permission of the school board members of the Home and School Association, who felt the pupils were not receiving enough physical training during school hours, sponsored the idea and supervised the activities.

J. W. Day, president of the association, acting as spokesman for the delegation reported to the school board that a canvass of high school pupils showed that a large number would like to participate in the program, and asked for the use of the Westglen gymnasium for this purpose.

The trustees reported the evenings during the week when the gymnasium was available and left the decision as to further activities to the members of the association.

C. J. Ingram, secretary of the local ration board wrote the school board requesting use of schools for the distribution of the number four ration books on March 28, 29 and 30, as in previous issues. This was granted by the board.

ATTENDANCE REPORT

An increase of 61 pupils in the elementary grades since the first of the year brought some controversy as to overcrowding in schools. This figure was shown by R. S. Sheppard, superintendent of schools, in his attendance report which also disclosed an increase of nearly 300 pupils since January 1943.

A claim from parents for $395 hospitalization and doctors bills for a child who was injured while playing in school grounds was referred to the board's insurance company.

The annual summary of accidents that have occurred in the school since October, 1943, was also presented by the superintendent. Nine children suffered fractures while playing games. The report included detailed accounts of all other injuries such as sprains, cuts, bumps, broken teeth and three cases of dog bite.

In January the medical examination of the high school pupils was completed and the physical examination of pupils in grade four begun according to the medical report presented by Dr. G. E. Swallow, medical officer of schools. Five hundred and forty-six complete physical examinations were made, 306 in the presence of parents.

Measles and chickenpox are prevalent throughout the city and are restricting attendance in the lower grades, Dr. Swallow reported.

C.C.F. in Manitoba Wants Recognition

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9.—(CP)—The Winnipeg Tribune said in a newspaper story yesterday one of the legislative decisions facing the Manitoba legislature which opened yesterday will be a demand of the C.C.F. to be recognized as an official opposition.

The Tribune says the demand will be made by S. J. Farmer, leader of the group of five C.C.F. members of the legislature, "who will restate his position that he left the government and declared himself leader of an opposition party."

At the last session, a C.C.F. bid to be recognized as the official opposition was denied because the party did not hold four seats. Since then two C.C.F. members won seats in by-elections at The Pas and Brandon to bring the C.C.F. total to five seats.

Hepburn Reported Planning to Seek Seat in Commons

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—The Evening Citizen said yesterday it had learned from "reliable sources" that Mitchell F. Hepburn, former Liberal premier of Ontario, will be an independent candidate in Ontario's Elgin constituency in the next federal election and will support John Bracken, leader of the Progressive Conservative party.

Mr. Hepburn now is independent Liberal member for Elgin in the Ontario legislature.

A spokesman at Conservative party headquarters said the party "knows nothing" of Mr. Hepburn's plans.

No Likelihood Of Nazi Defeat Before Invasion

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

CANBERRA, Feb. 9.—Despite "favorable war developments" there is no reason to believe Germany will be defeated without an Allied invasion from the west.

Prime Minister John Curtin said today in the house following the opening of the Commonwealth parliament.

"The enemy has had a long time to prepare defences against such an invasion," Curtin said, "and experience shows that a front of this kind cannot be opened without severe sacrifices of men and material."

"It seems clear that the climax of the European war will be reached this year. When Germany is defeated it will still take some time to mount an overpowering offensive against Japan. While we can be hopeful for the future, we cannot count on an early, easy victory."

With the opening of the new session today the stage is set for a politically - historical period in which the Dominion's domestic and external policy in the post-war years will be given form and direction.

SEEKS NEW POWERS

Prime Minister John Curtin is to lead the Labor government in a determined effort to strengthen the federal authority by prying loose from the six states rights and powers which they have held under the Commonwealth Constitution framed 44 years ago.

After 18 months of careful manoeuvring and compromise, the Commonwealth government obtained the unanimous agreement of the states to transfer to the federal authority for five years after the war 14 powers which the federal government deemed essential to have if it was to plan post-war reconstruction intelligently and effectively.

The outcome is that attorney-general Herbert V. Ewart, who is also external affairs minister, will present to parliament this session a bill authorizing a referendum to give the people of the entire country the chance to say whether they want the Commonwealth government to have the powers it seeks. The bill has the approval of the federal Labor party.

Bulgarian Troops Clash With Nazis

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(CP)—An anti-German revolt—the second in a week—has broken out among Bulgarian troops and several clashes have occurred with German garrisons in Bulgaria, a report reaching London said yesterday.

A state of emergency was said to have been declared in four Bulgarian districts and there were indications that additional Nazi troops were being moved southward to take repressive measures.

The outbreaks began after the Moscow radio had appealed to Bulgarians to throw off the German yoke, this report said.

At Beachhead Allies Beat Off Nazis, Yield No Vital Ground

By DANIEL DE LUCE

THE 5TH ARMY BEACHHEAD SOUTH OF ROME, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Allied troops fought off repeated small-scale German armored and infantry attacks on the fan-shaped beachhead front yesterday and yielded no vital ground.

Nazi companies of 100 to 200 men, supported by two or three tanks each, pressed forward slightly on both the British and United States sectors with a series of individual attacks.

The Germans forced a slight retirement in the British sector while continuing fierce pressure at a number of other points.

Annihilating a small German company which penetrated to a lateral road in the rear, British troops took a number of prisoners.

The fighting erupted at numerous points of the beachhead perimeter at 2:10 a.m. and continued fiercely after daybreak.

Heavy Allied artillery fire helped to contain small German penetrations.

NAZIS "DIG IN"

Infiltrating the northwestern sector of the British-held line, a minor German force dug in under the cover of darkness but before noon a British counter-attack appeared to have made their position untenable.

Artillery fire rolled like continuous thunder and black smoke hung thickly over the model farm village of Carroceto Aprilia, north of which British troops have been heavily engaged for six days.

American infantry outposts with tank support had a hot fight during the night around a road junction known as "Dead Woman." Officers said yesterday morning that the outcome of the scattered engagements was "fairly even."

Americans captured a handful of German prisoners and suffered comparatively light casualties.

German artillery tried to batter down American positions with continuous concentrations of shellfire, but the infantry veterans failed to budge in most parts of the line and at one point gained ground.

German pressure against the beachhead appeared generally stronger than at any time since the Allies began defensive fighting last Thursday.

Allied air power, however, taking advantage of favorable flying weather this week, has damaged the enemy siege army much more than Allied ground forces here have suffered at the hands of German air squadrons.

STRONGLY ENTRENCHED

The Germans in the central sector along highway No. 7 running through Cisterna appeared to have entrenched themselves strongly, but elsewhere around the beachhead the front line is fluid and subject to change from day to day.

British lines bore the brunt of the German attacks which began early Monday evening and continued at intervals all through yesterday.

The German tactics followed their expected pattern, testing the Allied defensive strength in every sector, but throwing the greatest weight of infantry and artillery to bear on the bulge of the beachhead line.

Post in Cabinet For McNaughton Not Considered

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Prime Minister King yesterday termed "pure invention" a report published in Ottawa that Lt. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, former commander of the Canadian Army overseas, was likely to be taken into the federal cabinet as minister of reconstruction.

Referring to his four-hour conversation with Gen. McNaughton the prime minister said: "From beginning to close I never discussed anything of the kind."

NOT CONSIDERED

Asked if it was likely Gen. McNaughton might be taken into the cabinet later, the prime minister shook his head and said that "Nothing like that is being considered."

A reporter pointed to a newspaper report (Ottawa Journal) carrying the suggestion that Gen. McNaughton might enter the cabinet and Mr. King declared: "Things like that aren't done to help win a war."

Then he turned and went back to his office.

At Seignior Club, Que., where the general is completing a rest and holiday started when he arrived in Canada last Thursday, a spokesman said earlier that the general "has nothing to say" on the published report. He did not elaborate. An official statement is expected soon in the house of commons on General McNaughton's return to Canada.

Men Discharged By Navy, R.C.A.F. Can Be Rechecked

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Men discharged from the navy and air force for physical reasons are subject to a recheck to determine whether they are fit for military service if they are within call-up age groups, National Selective Service officials said yesterday.

Commenting on a Washington report that men wounded in action, discharged and then fully recovered are being recalled for service, a spokesman said: "We have not yet taken any steps toward recalling men who have been discharged from the army."

Navy and air force medical standards are generally regarded as being higher than those required by the army.

Heavy clouds late yesterday afternoon muffled the Allied air power.

Ship Attacks Fast, Furious Here's Action on "Sea Strikes" As Told by Wainwright Flier

When aircraft of the coastal command make a "strike" on enemy shipping the action is fast and furious as anything from one to 30 aircraft fire hundreds of rounds of cannon shells and drop dozens of bombs in less than a minute. To get the story of one such action The Canadian Press went to a participant, F.O. James Keefe of Wainwright, Alta., who was in the R.C.A.F. Buffalo Squadron when a formation of Beaufighters attacked a German convoy off the Norwegian coast. This is his account, written for The Canadian Press.—Editor.

Fat saved from meat, rendered carefully, can be used in baking, frying and seasoning. With fats and oils scarce, that's important news. The fat should be carefully trimmed to remove all of the meat, tough membranes, bones, etc. Lean meat left on fat has a tendency to burn or scorch and give an undesirable flavor.

Chopped fine or ground just before using, fat renders more quickly and more uniformly and yields 1 to 15 per cent more.

Render small quantities of fat in a double boiler on top of the stove, because then the fat does not need to be watched closely and can be stirred occasionally. (The temperature of the fat should never exceed 250 degrees F.) The ground fat should not be packed into the double boiler. Loose fat renders more quickly and more uniformly than fat which has been packed. Stir frequently.

The fat is done when the cracklings separate into individual pieces and their color is a mixture of grayish white and light brown. Overcooking impairs the flavor and lowers the burning point.

Pour off immediately, strain through a cloth to remove the cracklings, and cool at room temperature. Stir occasionally while hardening to improve the texture. After the fat is cooled, it should be covered closely and stored in the refrigerator. It is advisable to label the containers so that the old stock will be used first. The "cracklings" can be ground or crushed and used in quick breads, especially corn breads, or in meat loaves and patties.

Movies Guiding Lives Of Modern Young Girls

Could Emphasize Beauty in Righteousness, and Old Standards of Feminine Virtues That Appeal Widely to Men

Bulletin Patterns

The most potent influence in the world today over young girls is the moving picture. It is their Bible, their Emily Post; it is the laws and the commandments about their morals and their manners and their general conduct and appearance.

Of course, every teen-ager is necessarily a copycat. She has no knowledge of life or experience to guide her, so she has to form herself upon someone whom she sets up as an ideal. In former days this paragon was Mother, or Joan of Arc, or Florence Willard, and Sweet Sixteen dreamed about being like them and having a houseful of beautiful, blue-eyed golden-haired children, or being a ministering angel, or working great reforms, and generally up-lifting the world.

But not now. There isn't a little sub-deb who doesn't turn up her nose at Mother's opinions, nor is there any girl-child who craves to emulate the great women who adorn the pages of history, but, she thinks, must have been awful frumps and had a slow time of it, having just one husband, or maybe no husband at all, and doing things in which there was no pep.

The women at whose shrines these youngsters worship are the cinema stars. They are the ones who set their pattern of life for them, and if you doubt this for a moment, just consider the slavish obedience with which they follow their screen idols.

Does a star have her hair bobbed? Every mother's daughter of them makes a rush for the barber shop. Does one appear in public with her coat hanging over her shoulders? Every cutie is suddenly metamorphosed into Sloppy Josie. Does another startlet appear in a picture in a sweater? The whole bunch of them would rather be dead than not be a Sweater Girl.

Now, inasmuch as the silver screen is forming the characters of our girls, it seems a pity that it does not often hold up for their imitation the kind of women we wish them to be when they are grown-up—the woman who is beautiful and glamorous and admired, yet who wears about her a cloak of reserve and dignity and modesty that she never drops.

It would do more than all of our prayers and preachings to make our darling little nitwits see that decency isn't necessarily stodgy; that vulgarity is not wit; that a drunken girl isn't funny, she is just disgusting; that stripping off her clothes doesn't make a homely girl attractive, it just calls attention to her defects, and that while loose morals may get a girl dates, they do not take her to the altar.

BEAUTY IS RIGHTEOUSNESS

In a word, we would like to have it brought home to our girls, through the all-potent power of the cinema, that there is a beauty in righteousness that transcends that of the flesh, and that all of the old standardized feminine virtues are still the charms that are the most appealing to men.

Customs have changed, but not the things that make women attractive to men. Femininity has always been women's chief lure, and ruffles instead of breeches. Gentleness, sympathy and kindness are the qualities men admire more in women than wisecracking, and every man wants a woman who says her prayers and believes in God and has standards of right living that no one can shake. And when men come to marry, the flower they want to pin in their buttonholes is a bud with the dew on it, not one that has been tramped in the mire of the street.

Perhaps if our little Jills could be taught, what they are too young to figure out for themselves, how much more glamorous modesty and reserve and purity are in a girl than hoodlumism, we would have more good little girls and fewer bar files.

And not so many mothers would have to lie awake at night wondering where their daughters are.

LONDON—(CP)—The Britannia club, newly-opened for United Nations' women in the services, has a billiard table in its recreation room—mainly "for the girls' boy friends," it was explained.

One of those frequently heard misstatements about the Bible is that referring to the "King James Version" of the Bible as the "Saint James Version." King James was far from being a saint, as every historian knows, even though he did encourage the most scholarly translation of the Bible that has ever been made. James I called the greatest minds of England in 1604 and appointed 54 of them to produce a uniform English translation to replace the many different translations then being used in English churches. It was actually a "revised version" as well as the "authorized version." It is recognized as one of the greatest literary masterpieces of the English language.

Gideon Planish

By Sinclair Lewis

XXXII

GOVERNOR BLIZZARD had summoned Dr. Planish, who found a changed man.

"Doc, I'm going to get out of this town and go back to the United States of America. This is the time for it. I think maybe I'm the guy to put up against FDR at the next Democratic National Convention, and till then I want to just set in Waskesgan and get the garlic and Channel smells off me."

"Yep, I'm reverting to Main Street with some of the fastest reversion you ever saw."

"But I might be able to use the lowdown on the virtuous shenanigans that Marduc and that daughter of his may pull from now on. My bank will be sending you—at your home address—a cheque for one hundred dollars, every month, and I'd like you to keep me informed on whatever that enlightening pair get away with."

Dr. Planish gasped, "You don't mean you want me to spy on Colonel Marduc?"

"Sure I do!"

"Oh! Oh, I see. Well—"

The publicizing of the Marduc Plan was interrupted by the most strategic idea Dr. Planish had had for a year. He saw a way in which, even during these troublous times, the DDD might be kept alive and useful no matter how wartime finances might go.

The surest life-blood of all organizations was to Dr. Planish's public rejoicing and private worry flowing into war bonds and Red Cross subscriptions, just when he had to pay the installments on Peony's new near-diamond and semi-sapphire bracelet. He knew that the other organizations must be suffering from the same anemia. Why not save expenses by combining all of them—with Dr. Gideon Planish as the executive secretary of the lot?

The idea was simple and brilliant. He felt, and Colonel Marduc approved it.

The word "Co-operation" had long been one of the most valuable in the organizational treasure-house.

Now, with his secretary, he began to list all the national welfare and educational organizations with headquarters in New York City.

He stooped when he had listed 200 of them.

He arbitrarily picked out every hundredth league, called a taxicab, started out to co-operate the 20 he had chosen—and quit his crusade at 4:37 that afternoon.

By 4:37 p.m. the innocent Doctor had been shocked by the whole business of organizational life. He had found that the National American Eclectic Institute for the Advancement of the Popular Principle in Education was one large, gray old gentleman who had a small desk in a corner of a public stenographer's clattering office; that its rival, the Society for the Humanization of Higher Education, did have rooms and rooms and pamphlets and pamphlets, but was, all the while, just another league for attacking union labor and that another rival, the Institute of Investigative Consideration of Education, was nothing at all but No. 3 telephone in a row of 12 telephones upon the desk of a back-room real estate dealer, which desk was equally the headquarters of the Mount Celestial Cemetery Corp., and the League for the Protection of Home and Marriage.

Dr. Planish returned to his office and left the world to darkness and to philanthropy. He was so sunk that for a moment he thought of going back to work, of taking a school job so that some younger teacher might be released for enlistment.

But, he snorted, what percentage was there in being a professional Light to the Toleirs if you merely become a toiler? That would be as silly as for a professional evangelist to go to somebody else's mission and get saved, with not even a look-in on the collection box.

No, he would go on with his co-operation, but he would perform it with sound, reliable organizations, the ones he already knew personally.

Next morning, at 11, he was in the anteroom of the Anti-Racial Youth Committee for the Organization of Global Co-operation, waiting to see its managing secretary, Prof. Goetz Buchwald.

Into this room militarily strode still another friend: Commr. Orris Gall, executive director of the Zero - Hour American National Committee on Anti-Totalitarian Defence, which even since Pearl Harbor had gone right on in a surprised way telling the country that Adolf Hitler was no real friend of America.

Well, well, well, Dr. Planish, this is swell finding you here. This

McCoy Health Service

In yesterday's article, I started the discussion of one of the functional heart disorders known as palpitation, in which the patient becomes aware of irregularity in the heart action.

In a mild attack, the patient may say that the heart flutters, or may say he has a sensation of what he calls "goneness," meaning by this a sensation like that felt when a person drops swiftly in an elevator. In the severe attacks, the heart action is so violent that the pulsation may be readily seen by watching the chest wall, there is a vigorous throbbing in the arteries, and the rapidity of the heart action is very noticeable.

Such attacks of palpitation may last anywhere from a few minutes to a few hours. If the patient refuses to take them seriously, but watches the heart action in the attitude of one who is watching the taunts of a child, an almost immediate quieting effect may occur.

Many cases are due to mistakes in diet or to acute indigestion, and in such cases the adoption of more sensible habits of eating will bring excellent results. It is a good plan to reassure the patient as to his safety and he should be advised to obtain enough sleep, to avoid stimulants to excess, to avoid large meals, and to omit those foods tending to produce large amounts of gas.

Another symptom often seen in functional heart disorders is pain. It is a significant fact that many of the serious forms of heart trouble, in the beginning, are not accompanied by pain. In considering the pain due to a disturbance of function it is important to find out if the pain seems to follow emotion, excitement or activity.

Heart pain may be due to indigestion to excessive use of tobacco in some cases, or to nervousness. The patient may mention a dull pain which is persistent, but as a general rule the pain is described as lasting for a short time and being sharp or stabbing. While the pain usually bears little relationship to exertion it may appear at night when the patient is in bed. When it has been ascertained that the pain is the result of nervous factors then reassurance, regulation of the diet, and better emotional control may successfully banish the symptom.

Another one of the functional heart disorders has been given the name of the "Effort syndrome." This includes such symptoms as shortness of breath, fatigue on slight activity, palpitation, dizziness, etc. As a rule the patient is not fitted to do heavy physical work.

The patient with this set of symptoms is usually very open to suggestion. It is advisable to go over his living habits with him and show him how to live so as to take care of his physical health to the best advantage. With sensible advice, he may frequently be returned to a normal, useful life, and will get along all right as long as he avoids stress and strain.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

"Hellcat" hand showed up. When Mrs. Sobel played it, she made a psychic opening bid of one diamond. North, her partner, bid a heart. Mrs. Sobel bid three hearts and North went to six hearts. A small diamond was opened by East and all the declarer had to do was to lead a heart, go up with dummy's ace, grant the opponents a heart trick and six-odd was made.

But look at what happened at another table! South became the declarer at four hearts. The opening diamond lead was ducked in dummy and East won with the king. East returned the deuce of diamonds, a suit-directing play. West trumped and returned a club, which East ruffed. Another diamond was led. South made the mistake of trumping with the queen of hearts, West overtrumped with the king and led another club, which East ruffed. So, on the very same cards on which Mrs. Sobel and her partner made six hearts, this pair managed to go down two tricks at four.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDERED

It's hard for a parent to determine whether a child cries from "tummy-ache"—the easiest diagnosis a parent can make—or because there is hunger.

Babies who are hungry tend to have lots of gas, are uncomfortable when awake and sleep fitfully. Their actions can look like pain or they can disappear when the formula is made stronger and they get a satisfying quantity of food.

The difference between these two states can best be determined by the rate of baby's gain and a comparison of the formula with other formulas for babies of the same age and weight. Such a comparison in the case of Mrs. B. K. B. Makes one feel sure her baby wouldn't have a "tummy-ache" if he had more to eat.

"He was 3 months old the last part of December," she writes. "I nursed him and gave him a supplementary feeding and he gained about a half a pound a week until he was 2 months old. He then weighed 10 1/2 pounds.

"I started working harder and had less nourishment for him and so I increased the formula. We changed from fresh milk to evaporated milk because the formula didn't seem to be agreeing. Then we changed from corn syrup to malt sugar. Now he gets 20 ounces of boiled water, 10 of evaporated milk and 6 tablespoons of malt sugar. Last week he weighed 12 1/2 pounds. He has only gained a pound in five weeks. Do you think you could suggest a formula for him now?"

I believe this nearly 13 pound baby wouldn't be satisfied with so weak a formula. Why not try 11 and then 12 ounces of evaporated milk with boiled water to make 32 ounces in all and either 3 tablespoons of corn syrup or six level teaspoons of malt sugar.

Your baby can have one teaspoon or so of pre-cooked cereal made for babies, with part of the formula and the rest of the formula to drink. Begin with one teaspoon before the 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. feedings and increase slowly. The orange juice can be as much as two or three ounces daily with an equal amount of water. And don't forget the vitamin D. That's vitally important for a fast-growing baby in winter weather.

Our leaflet on "Sweet Milk Formulas" may be had by sending a 4-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper, requesting it.

TEA, COFFEE RATINGS NO HIGHER

Consumption and shipping account for the recent announcement that tea and coffee ratings would not be increased. In the case of coffee, Canadians are now drinking more than they ever did before. As for tea, the backlog is no more than adequate to maintain the ration.

One hundred and twenty-five persons were present at the Y.W.C.A. annual meeting and dinner in the dining room of the "Y" at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday. Special guests included city officials, members of the clergy and representatives of service organizations.

Vases of daffodils alternated with green tapers, a giant basket of daffodils and red carnations decorated the head table at which the following were seated: Mayor John W. Fry and Mrs. Fry, the Rev. R. M. Thompson and Mrs. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Clarke Ready, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Weir, Mr. and Mrs. Reg. T. Rose, S. W. Field, K.C., and Mrs. Field; Mrs. Selby Walker, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. The address was given by Mrs. G. E. Storey. She said that Miss Bradshaw's dream was that the Y.W.C.A. should be the centre of women's activities, and that dream is being realized.

Miss Iris Wolfe contributed a vocal solo, accompanied by Mrs. G. A. Kevan.

Guest speaker was Mrs. Selby Walker, Alberta liaison officer for Y.W.C.A. war services in the province. She gave an outline of the work being done in "Y" hostess houses, of which there are now 36 in Canada, barracks centres and leave centres. She announced that the proposed leave centre at Banff is to become a reality. Mrs. F. W. Milne introduced the speaker.

PRESIDENT

Mrs. M. C. McCannel, president of the board of directors, presided and gave a brief outline of the accomplishments of the last year, thanking the organizations which had "so generously co-operated" with the Y.W.C.A. She stressed the growing need for more space and urged all interested in the work done by the organization to put forth greater efforts in the direction of financing an additional wing to the present building.

Mrs. E. P. Weidner introduced the staff of the "Y" and gave a resume of the work done in 1943. She stated that many young girls coming from the country were given aid, to the extent of 125 free meals and 336 free beds. The number of persons assisted, at trains, locating relatives, rooms and other matters, totalled 2,770, an increase of 1,370 over the previous year.

She also stressed the need for additional room, stating that club work alone had grown amazingly. At present there are 19 groups with a total membership of 576.

Mrs. Horace G. Johnson, giving the treasurer's report, stated that a payment of $2,000 was made on the agreement for sale on the South Hall and it was hoped the remaining $2,000 will be paid off in 1944. Mrs. Johnson stated that the gymnasium was the only department showing a deficit this year. The cafeteria was "exceedingly successful," showing a surplus of $8,000, from the serving of an average of more than 13,000 meals each month at an average price of 19 cents per meal.

The Y.W.C.A. received $2,500 from the Community Chest, and made a payment of $475. Allotments to National Council, Foreign Work and World's "Y" affiliation, amounting to almost $900. Proceeds from the birthday tea, totalling more than $200 were sent to the Mrs. Churchill Fund for British "Y" emergency war work, and $33, donated by friends was sent to the Chinese relief fund.

The three residences showed a registration of 4,752 and concluded the year with a surplus of $2,500. Mrs. W. J. Kelly, convener of war services reported that approximately 600 persons were referred to rooms during the year through the aid of rooms registry at the "Y".

The club rooms in the South Hall have proved a great help to transient service women and to wives of service men stationed in the city. The club rooms are used by various service clubs for meetings. The work of the travellers' aid has been greatly extended to meet the wartime needs, and overnight accommodation had been provided for many servicemen's families.

Another important phase of the endeavor to meet the present need is the work of the senior girls in providing entertainment and social evenings for men of the armed forces.

Mrs. L. H. Cobblewick announced the members of the nominating committee. They were Mrs. W. H. Hustler, Mrs. Harold Fazackerly, Mrs. Charles H. Grant, Mrs. J. M. Forbes and Mrs. L. H. Cobblewick. Election of officers for 1944 will take place at a special meeting Friday.

The Atlantic Monthly is offering a thousand dollar prize for the best article on "freedom of the press in the United States." The notice reads: "The competition is open to newspaper readers, who are the ultimate critics of the press and to all journalists of all ages and experience—editorial writers, sports writers, rewrite men and reporters."

They suggest that articles should not be less than 4,500 words or more than 7,000, and they must be received at the Atlantic Monthly's office not later than May 3, 1944. The judges are Edward Weeks, editor of the Atlantic Monthly; Gerald W. Johnson, historian, biographer and former editorial writer of the Baltimore Sun; Louis M. Lyons, curator, the Nieman Foundation, Harvard University, staff reporter of the Boston Globe.

This contest seems to me of great importance, for many of us have never really formulated what we mean by freedom of the press. Freedom may be used as a name to cover up a very real control, and I have thought for a long time that the clarification of what constitutes freedom of the press would be valuable, just as I think the clarification of what constitutes academic freedom in our schools and colleges would be a help to better understanding of education.

Alberta Beach Hen

Produces Big Eggs

The food production program received a boost recently when a Leg horn hen belonging to Mrs. N. Burton of Alberta Beach laid an unusually large egg. The egg weighs one-quarter of a pound, is three and a quarter inches long, and more than two inches wide. Mr. and Mrs.

Burton operate a chicken farm at Alberta Beach.

Before the Magistrate

Bernadette Nolan, charged before

Magistrate A. I. Miller, K.C., in city police court Tuesday afternoon, with vagrancy, was sentenced to three months with hard labor. The sentence will run from the date of her arrest, Jan. 28. The accused had not been working, she had no money, and no place to stay, the court was told. Her mother was dead while her father was believed to be in Calgary.

She had no reason to offer for not working, adding that every time she got a job, "something always happened." The magistrate reminded her that she had been twice convinced for this offence in 1943, together with convictions for breach of recognisance and theft.

John Stasak, charged with indecent assault before Magistrate A. I.

Miller, K.C., was remanded to stand trial at the next sitting of Supreme Court, Wednesday morning. On a second count, of illegal possession of liquor, he was fined $300 or three months with hard labor.

Ball in this case was set at $1,000

with one surety.

Emil Britzkewitz, charged with operating a motor vehicle without adequate brakes, pleaded guilty and said he had just bought the auto and was not acquainted with

it. He was fined $5 or seven days.

Marion G. Bruce, charged with driving at an unreasonable speed, was assessed $10 or 14 days.
